U.S. Is Gearing To War Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Johnson administration gradually is gearing its money operations—including the national debt—for a Vietnam war lasting at least as long as the U.S. involvement in World War II.

A request Monday to Congress for a permanent debt ceiling of $365 billion to carry the government through June 30, 1969, was one of several recent moves in that direction.

They also include President

Johnson's request for a six per cent income tax surtax, sales of new "freedom share" savings bonds pegged directly to the length of the war and a voluntary program to stem the flow of investment dollars overseas.

World War II fighting began for the United States Dec. 7, 1941, and ended with Japan's surrender Aug. 14, 1945.

The U.S. troop buildup in Vietnam reached major scale in mid-1965 and administration fiscal planning now runs through June 30, 1969.

The implication for the national debt was clear in the appearance Monday of Secretary of the Treasury Fowler before the House Ways and Means Committee.

"I am here to talk about financing a war. It is a costly war and it must be financed in a manner consistent with preserving sound, balanced and fruitful economic growth at home," he said.

In recommending a permanent debt ceiling of $365 billion, Fowler said World War II provided a precedent for large debt limit increases to insure the ceiling "would not be a constraint on necessary wartime finance."

The present temporary ceiling of $336 billion will drop to $285 billion, the current permanent level, on July 1 unless Congress acts. The actual debt as of May 10—the latest date for which a figure is available—was $328.4 billion.

New Railroad Strike Looms

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new nationwide railroad strike threat by conductors and brakemen was reported today while Congress resumed hearings on President Johnson's efforts to head off a walkout by six railroad shop unions.

The Independent Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen has advised railroad negotiators that some 20,000 of its members have authorized a strike for June 2, it was learned.

President Johnson could appoint an emergency board under the Railway Labor Act to stave off the new strike threat for 60 days, but the development seemed likely to complicate congressional action on the special law he seeks to prevent a strike by the shop unions.

Neither the union nor the railroads announced the new strike threat, but it was confirmed by government sources.

The conductors' and brakemen's dispute, like that of the shopcraft unions, involves 90 per cent of the nation's major railroads and a strike would virtually paralyze the industry.

Judge Dismisses Burglary Charge

CINCINNATI (AP)—Hamilton County Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin S. Schwartz dismissed a burglary charge Monday against a 15-year-old boy just hours after a U. S. Supreme Court decision extending Constitutional protection to juveniles.

The reason was that the boy had admitted the burglary to a police officer who, at the time, did not know he should advise the youth of his Constitutional rights.

The Supreme Court decision held that juveniles are entitled to have notice of the charges against them and to have the right to have an attorney's assistance.

Federal Grants For Youths Corps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Federal grants to provide $107,500 for operation of Neighborhood Youth Corps projects in Massillon and Batavia this summer have been announced by the Ohio Office of Opportunity.

Required approval Monday by Gov. James A. Rhodes cleared the way for release of $55,430 for a 12-week program at Batavia and $52,070 for a 10-week program in Massillon. Both will be for 100 enrollees.

Either Taxes or Tuition Must Rise, Says Millett

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio college students must pay $150-$200 more tuition a year or the legislature will have to increase taxes to meet increasing costs of higher education, says the chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents.

Dr. John D. Millett listed these "as the only two alternatives" Monday night in testimony before the House Finance Committee.

Millett said the tuition boost would offset an $85 million difference between the $253 million in Gov. James A. Rhodes' 1967-69 higher education budget and the $338 million estimated by regents as the amount needed for capital improvements and increased salaries and services in the coming biennium.

The chancellor emphasized that he mentioned the alternatives only as such and that "I am not recommending either of them." But he told newsmen in advance of the committee meeting that he personally favors an increase in tax revenues "as being in the best long-range interest of the state."

Millett said only two states—Vermont and New Hampshire—have higher tuition at state-supported schools than Ohio now. He added that tuition at Ohio State University already is $100-$125 above other universities in the Big Ten.

He listed resident student tuition at Ohio's state-supported schools (three quarters or two semesters as ranging from $300 at Central State University to $544 at the University of Toledo. In between are Akron $416, Bowling Green, $420, Cleveland State $417, Kent State $390, Miami $390, Ohio State $390 and Wright State $474. None of the figures includes student service fees.

RFK, Reagan Express Views On Viet War

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Gov. Ronald Reagan faced each other in national television Monday night and made clear their differing stands on issues concerning the war in Vietnam.

The New York Democrat answered "yes" and the California Republican "no" to a question on whether the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, should take part in any future peace talks.

They took opposite positions in a discussion on the effect of mass protests against the war.

Kennedy said people who question United States policy would be unpatriotic if they did not express their beliefs and added, "If all the protests and demonstrations ended today, the war would not end."

Reagan contended that the demonstrations prolong the war because they give encouragement to the enemy.

The two leaders, often mentioned as possible opponents in the 1972 presidential race, appeared on the CBS "Town Meeting of the World" in which they answered questions from 17 students in London.

Kennedy, talking from a New York studio in part of a hookup made via the Early Bird communications satellite, said it was unfortunate that a military regime should rule in a country like Greece where democracy began.

Reagan, in California, had a different point of view. He said, "I'm not sure that the forces that the military junta rose up to put down were completely dedicated to Greece's welfare."

Columbus Bank Robbery Linked With 3 Others

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police indicated Tuesday that the masked holdup men who took more than $45,000 Monday from a Columbus bank may be the same robbers wanted in at least three other stickups in Ohio and Kentucky.

Two men wearing rubber masks took $45,283 from the Great Southern Shopping Center. They held up the bank at the precise moment to get receipts just deposited from Mother's Day business.

Police and FBI agents had no new leads Tuesday on the stickup men. But authorities said the holdup resembled bank robberies in at least three other cities—Dayton, Louisville and Cincinnati.

The daring daytime holdup netted the thieves the largest amount of cash taken this year in an Ohio bank robbery.

U.S. Jet May Have Crashed In Red China

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon says a U.S. Air Force jet may have crashed in Red China after being hit by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft fire.

The unsolicited report from the Pentagon came Monday only a few hours after the State Department denied three-week-old Communist Chinese charges about alleged U.S. bombings of Red China.

The Pentagon stated the plane, an F105 Thunderchief, was hit during a Monday attack on military targets near Kep, North Vietnam, about 32 nautical miles northeast of Hanoi.

The pilot of the damaged jet was last heard reporting by radio that he was "heading out," said the Pentagon. The statement said the plane's course indicated the pilot was headed toward the North Vietnam-mainland China border.

Spokesmen said "heading out" could have meant the plane was dropping out of formation or that its crew was bailing out.

The Pentagon said it had no word of the plane's two-man crew.

Red China charged three weeks ago that U.S. planes bombed territory north of the North Vietnamese borders and that two planes were shot down.

"There's no evidence that ordnance from American planes landed on, or came to fall on, Chinese Communist territory," newsmen were told at that time by Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer.

Asked if U.S. planes had been shot down over Red China, he had replied: "I'm advised that careful investigation does not support those charges."

McCloskey would not comment publicly on Red Chinese charges alleging overflights by U.S. planes.

But U.S. officials have said privately for some time that accidental overflights of Red China were likely in view of the speed of U.S. planes and the short distance between some North Vietnamese targets and Communist Chinese borders.

In Saigon, sources said pilots with targets near the border are instructed to avoid at all costs coming down on Red Chinese soil. Planes also are supposed to avoid a 25-mile zone directly south of the border, the sources said.

Trouble Mounts Over Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Hundreds of Chinese chanting quotations from Mao Tse-tung forced a Hong Kong court today to adjourn the trial of Chinese arrested in last week's Communist riots.

Huge anti-British demonstrations were reported in Peking and Canton.

British colonial officials put 20,000 police and troops on alert after the Chinese government accused them of "fascist atrocities" in quelling three days of rioting that stemmed from a strike of factory workers over wages and unemployment.

Peking's note to the British government in London demanded the release of nearly 400 Chinese arrested during the rioting in a Kowloon industrial district.

British authorities in London had no immediate comment.

In addition to demanding the release of those arrested, Peking's note to London demanded punishment for those responsible for the "sanguinary atrocities," apologies and compensation to those injured or arrested in the rioting and guarantees against similar incidents in the future.

The demands were similar to those Red China made on Portugal after rioting rocked the Portuguese colony of Macao, Hong Kong's neighbor on the Chinese mainland. The Portuguese knuckled under after Red Chinese gunboats began patrolling off Macao.

There is a nagging fear in London that Peking, frustrated over the war in Vietnam and the

No Trace Yet Of Lost Boys

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP)—It has been nearly a week since Craig Dowell, 14, Joey Hoag, 13, and Billy Hoag, 11, were last seen, presumably entering one of the many caves that lead into a spider-like web of passages under the old hometown of Mark Twain.

There have been no substantial clues discovered since the boys were seen last Wednesday afternoon, carrying a shovel and flash lights near Murphy's Cave.

Early today, Dr. Stanislaw Vincenz, of St. Louis University, began modifying an electronic instrument normally used to detect mineral ore deposits.

The associate professor of geophysical engineering was asked to join the hunt for the boys in hopes his instrument might locate the shovel and flashlights the youths were carrying.

Martin Bormann

Not Man Arrested

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Frankfurt Prosecutor Joachim Richter announced today that a fingerprint check has established that an aged man arrested in Guatemala on suspicion of being Martin Bormann is not Hitler's missing deputy fuhrer.

The man, who is in his 70s, said his name was Falero Martinez and that he was born in Uruguay. He was arrested last week while working as a farm worker in the interior of Guatemala.

His prints were rushed to Frankfurt and compared with those of Bormann, who disappeared at the end of World War II.

Bormann, the most wanted Nazi war criminal, has been reported seen in a number of Latin-American countries over the years but none of the reports has ever been substantiated.

Solon Feels Private Talks Of No Avail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield proposes placing the Vietnam war squarely before the United Nations—an idea he says U.N. Secretary-General U Thant scotched last year.

Mansfield said Monday in a Senate speech that when he first proposed asking the U.N. Security Council to take up the war issue—in a Nov. 11, 1966, speech in Baltimore—he won backing from President Johnson.

He said Johnson phoned him after the speech and urged him to discuss the matter with Thant and Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Mansfield said Thant opposed the proposal, saying he would prefer to pursue peace talks privately rather than having Vietnam taken either to the Security Council or the U.N. General Assembly.

Mansfield later told The Associated Press he had not previously discussed publicly the President's request and Thant's response.

"I think the secretary-general has had his chance," Mansfield told his colleagues Monday. "He has done everything he can. It is now time to place the matter formally before the Security Council."

Mansfield's proposal, and a call by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., for restrictions on U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, came in the wake of Thant's forecast last week that the Southeast Asian conflict could explode into World War III.

Cooper urged restricting bombing to infiltration routes near the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams.

He said if such a limitation on air strikes brought any affirmative response from Hanoi, all bombing should be suspended in an effort to get talks started.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, predicted Monday that U.S. military involvement in Asia could last "till the end of the century." Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the United States is opposed "to Red China being given a free hand out there. We would not like to see one nation

Nazi Rockwell Faces Sentence

Sentencing for the American Nazi party leader was set for today. Magistrate Maurice W. Lee set bond at $5,000.

Coronary Risk Increases With Professional Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government-sponsored study among Benedictine and Trappist monks indicates that the higher you go in your chosen life's work the greater your risk of a coronary heart attack.

The National Institutes of Health said in a report today that among members of both religious orders, the prevalence of coronary heart disease was approximately three times higher for ordained priests than for the monks, the agency indicated.

Brothers are members of a religious order who are not preparing for, or are not yet ready for, the final vows of holy orders.

While the study was limited to the monks, the agency indicated that the risks suggested by the findings might well apply to people moving up to higher echelons in any occupation.

The findings came about somewhat by chance, said the report. The report declared: "A study originally designed to assess the relationship between dietary habits and heart-disease risk has disclosed that an occupational stress may also be a potent factor affecting the development of coronary heart disease and such dangerous complications as heart attacks."

It said the study "compared a large group of Benedictine monks, who eat a typical American diet, with a similar group of Trappists, who eat a frugal, lacto-vegetarian diet considerably lower in fat."

A lacto-vegetarian diet consists of milk and vegetables. Not unexpectedly, said the report, the Trappists had substantially lower amounts of fatty substances in the blood serum than did the Benedictines and experienced only about one-third as many episodes of coronary heart disease.

But the study also disclosed that as monks from either group moved up to higher echelons within their order, their heart-disease risk increased steeply even though their dietary habits remained essentially the same."

Delta, DMZ Both Report Hard Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — Hard fighting at both ends of South Vietnam was reported today, with 113 guerrillas killed in two battles with American infantrymen in the Mekong Delta and 52 of the enemy and 16 Americans killed in three clashes in the northern sector.

Red rocket and mortar attacks continued around the clock in the northern provinces, and the Communists lobbed 60 mortar rounds into the U.S. military advisory compound before dawn in downtown Hue.

Troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division, sweeping Mekong Delta paddy lands long controlled by the Viet Cong, flushed guerrilla forces frequently Monday and twice pushed them into stand-up fights in an area about 40 miles below Saigon.

Aided by air strikes the infantrymen reported 113 of the enemy killed.

U.S. casualties were not reported.

Red gunners in the northern province of Quang Ngai also brought down six U.S. helicopter gunships supporting troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division. One of the choppers was destroyed but big flying crane helicopters lifted the other five out to be repaired.

The paratroopers, part of an Army taskforce that has moved in to help the thin spread Marines, suffered 7 killed and 34 wounded in a series of actions Monday.

Six Americans were wounded and one South Vietnamese was killed in the mortar attack before dawn at Hue, 60 miles below the demilitarized zone and the old imperial capital of Vietnam.

In the Marine battleground just below the zone seven Leathernecks were killed and 77 wounded as part of the 9th regiment met an estimated 150 North Vietnamese in a 12-hour fight a mile from Con Thien.

The Marines reported killing 10 enemy regulars in the face of heavy small-arms and mortar fire.

The 9th Marines have had 29 killed and 190 wounded in three days of fighting near Con Thien, one corner of "Leatherneck Square." The three other Marine outposts forming the square are Gio Linh, Dong Ha and Cam Carroll.

U.S. Marines in Operation Union, 22 miles south of Da Nang, reported killing 22 enemy Monday, with 6 Marines killed and 32 wounded.

A Marine spokesman said 10 other Marines were wounded in a U.S. jet air strike during the operation, but details were not immediately available.

In the hills above Duc Pho, 75 miles south of Da Nang, U.S. Army forces conducting Operation Maheuer killed 20 enemy troops and lost 3 dead and 34 wounded.

In Saigon, qualified Vietnamese sources said that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky has won the overwhelming support of the Armed Forces Council for his presidential candidacy in the September election. The sources reported that in a vote taken Sunday by the council, Ky received 40 votes and his major potential opponent within the ruling junta, Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, got only two.

Mansfield said Monday in a Senate speech that when he first proposed asking the U.N. Security Council to take up the war issue—in a Nov. 11, 1966, speech in Baltimore—he won backing from President Johnson.

He said Johnson phoned him after the speech and urged him to discuss the matter with Thant and Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Mansfield said Thant opposed the proposal, saying he would prefer to pursue peace talks privately rather than having Vietnam taken either to the Security Council or the U.N. General Assembly.

Mansfield later told The Associated Press he had not previously discussed publicly the President's request and Thant's response.

"I think the secretary-general has had his chance," Mansfield told his colleagues Monday. "He has done everything he can. It is now time to place the matter formally before the Security Council."

Mansfield's proposal, and a call by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., for restrictions on U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, came in the wake of Thant's forecast last week that the Southeast Asian conflict could explode into World War III.

Cooper urged restricting of bombing to infiltration routes near the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams.

He said if such a limitation on air strikes brought any affirmative response from Hanoi, all bombing should be suspended in an effort to get talks started.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, predicted Monday that U.S. military involvement in Asia could last "till the end of the century." Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the United States is opposed "to Red China being given a free hand out there. We would not like to see one nation

Nazi Rockwell Faces Sentence

CHICAGO (AP) — George Lincoln Rockwell has been convicted on three charges stemming from a disturbance last summer in a Cook County official's office and faces penalties of up to one year in prison and $1,000 in fines.

Sentencing for the American Nazi party leader was set for today. Magistrate Maurice W. Lee set bond at $5,000.

Coronary Risk Increases With Professional Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government-sponsored study among Benedictine and Trappist monks indicates that the higher you go in your chosen life's work the greater your risk of a coronary heart attack.

The National Institutes of Health said in a report today that among members of both religious orders, the prevalence of coronary heart disease was approximately three times higher for ordained priests than for the monks, the agency indicated.

Brothers are members of a religious order who are not preparing for, or are not yet ready for, the final vows of holy orders.

While the study was limited to the monks, the agency indicated that the risks suggested by the findings might well apply to people moving up to higher echelons in any occupation.

The findings came about somewhat by chance, said the report.

The report declared: "A study originally designed to assess the relationship between dietary habits and heart-disease risk has disclosed that occupational stress may also be a potent factor affecting the development of coronary heart disease and such dangerous complications as heart attacks."

It said the study "compared a large group of Benedictine monks, who eat a typical American diet, with a similar group of Trappists, who eat a frugal, lacto-vegetarian diet considerably lower in fat."

A lacto-vegetarian diet consists of milk and vegetables. Not unexpectedly, said the report, the Trappists had substantially lower amounts of fatty substances in the blood serum than did the Benedictines and experienced only about one-third as many episodes of coronary heart disease.

But the study also disclosed that as monks from either group moved up to higher echelons within their order, their heart-disease risk increased steeply even though their dietary habits remained essentially the same."

Local Girls
Are Entered
In Pageant

Marsha Gunder and Anita Moats of this community are among contestants competing for the title of Miss South Central Ohio. Linda Trimmer of Route 4 is the reigning beauty queen.

The girls attended a pre-pageant tea in Chillicothe and were assigned hostesses who will assist them throughout the event. The hostesses are wives of Chillicothe Jaycee members, sponsors of the pageant. Officials announced there are still spots open for four or five more contestants.

Norman Mitchell, general chairman, briefed the pretty entries on the pageant. Mrs. Mitchell, hostess chairman, described pageant preparations and William Bitticker outlined staging plans.

Miss Trimmer told the girls of her experiences in the Miss Ohio event. The South Central Ohio contest is a preliminary to the Miss Ohio and Miss America Beauty Pageants.

This Saturday the girls will attend a buffet in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mitchell and then travel to the Miss Western Ohio Pageant in Wilmington.

Tickets for the Miss South Central Ohio contest are on sale at Sill's Shoe Store, Chillicothe.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists will investigate whether carbon-monoxide fumes from the cars and trucks on crowded highways affect expectant mothers, survival of babies and birth weights.

Dr. Edward Blomquist of the Public Health Service told a Senate committee that preliminary studies already show that the fumes affect a driver's vision and mental alertness. Future studies will try to determine whether the effects are serious enough to cause accidents.

Blomquist testified Monday before a Senate subcommittee which is considering legislation for federal control of air pollution.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Negro teacher says the civil rights struggle may reap so much discontent and loss of faith that it eventually will be reduced to a civil war between whites and Negroes.

"If it's comforting to you, it's going to be quite a while off yet — though not so far off as to be outside of our life span," said Dr. Nathan Hare, assistant professor of sociology at Howard University in Washington.

In a copyrighted interview with U.S. News & World Report, Hare, 33, also predicted that Stokely Carmichael would be the Negro leader "for the near future, at least."

Carmichael became the leading advocate of black power while chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, a post he left last week. He was a student of Hare's at Howard University.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., has received thousands of Mothers Day cards from mothers who want peace in the world.

"For my Mothers Day gift this year, I don't want candy or flowers," the cards said. "I want an end to killing. We who have given life must be dedicated to preserving it. Please take peace."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is an outspoken critic of the Vietnam war.

His office estimated Monday he received 10,000 to 12,000 cards, apparently from members of a group called "Another Mother for Peace," based in Los Angeles.

Snappy Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market mounted a fairly snappy rally early this afternoon.

Trading was brisk. Glamour stocks and blue chips rebounded from Monday's selling.

The Monday decline was on markedly lower volume and this was seen as an encouraging technical feature.

Analysts still saw the market as working through a consolidation phase following its recent dramatic four-week climb.

The advance produced gains of several points for some of the higher-priced glamor issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.62 at 887.03.

dominate all of Europe or all of Asia."

Wheeler found the current situation in Thailand highly reminiscent of South Vietnam in the early 1960s.

Rusk and Wheeler were quoted in the May 30 edition of Look magazine.

Cooper, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., Mansfield and others agreed in Senate debate that any further acceleration of the war makes it more likely that Red China may intervene and that the Soviet Union would be drawn in, thus bringing on a world war.

Rusk, whose previous judgment on Chinese intentions in Korea was questioned by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, had been scheduled for an appearance today at a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to review the Vietnam issue.

Church said Rusk was a Far East expert in the State Department when it advised President Truman that Red China would not intervene in the Korean War even if U.S. troops fought their way to the Yalu River.

Mansfield disagreed in part with Cooper's suggestion for a limitation on the bombing. He said if it failed to bring any response he feared American public opinion would demand even greater military measures against North Vietnam.

But Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said he thought Cooper's proposal was worth a try. He said having 500,000 troops in Vietnam a few hundred miles from Red China's border was a great risk.

"If there were 500,000 Chinese troops 400 miles from our border, say in Mexico, we would have reacted most strongly," he said.

New Juvenile Rulings
Elicit Varied Response

NEW YORK (AP) — Legal authorities generally expressed satisfaction today with the Supreme Court's extension of constitutional protections to juveniles. Dissenters were outspoken however, one calling it "a dreadful blow to the concept of juvenile court."

Many judges across the nation said in an Associated Press survey that the ruling would entail no change in their procedures and that their courts were already practicing the principles laid down by the high court Monday.

But Superior Court Judge Lloyd Shorett of Seattle, Wash., said, "I think it is a dreadful blow to the concept of juvenile court. It is a long step in the wrong direction. It means the entire concept of attempted reformation by juvenile courts in effect since 1900 will go out the window."

In its 8 to 1 decision, the Supreme Court held that juveniles, like adults, are entitled to the following Bill of Rights safeguards:

1. Notice of the charges placed against them.
2. The right to have an attorney's assistance.
3. The right to confront and cross-examine complainants and other witnesses.
4. Protection against self-incrimination, including the privilege of remaining silent.
5. The right to a transcript of the proceedings.
6. The right to have the case reviewed in higher courts.

Shorett was most unhappy over point 2—the right to attorney.

"Many more juveniles facing the court will have lawyers. They will be advised to say nothing and many will be turned loose for lack of other evidence," he said.

An opposite view was taken by John Pemberton, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union. In a statement issued here, he said the decision "may well be the most important in the present term of the Supreme Court."

It is important, he explained, "because the law must be seen to practice what it preaches if it is to create incentives in juveniles to rehabilitate themselves."

Another who applauded the decision was Judge Orm W. Ketcham in Washington, D.C. He predicted one long-range effect would be to create greater sympathy in legislatures for juvenile courts and for financing related facilities such as diagnostic centers.

"I am very pleased they are insisting that lawyers be more involved," he said. "Lawyers are more articulate than social workers with legislatures," he added in explanation of his prediction.

A dissenter was Judge Benjamin Schwartz of Cincinnati.

He said if this met with an "affirmative response" from North Vietnam then the bombing of North Vietnam should be suspended.

He said this would involve risks. But he added, "The danger inherent in seeking a new initiative toward peace by a limitation of the bombing in North Vietnam is not as great as the danger of China's intervention as a result of the war's expansion. Nor would this new attempt to achieve negotiations be as dangerous as an increased involvement by the Soviet Union, and the greater peril of World War III."

"We cannot assume that the turmoil and struggle in Communist China will prevent it from intervening," he said.

Cooper Feels
China May Enter Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said Monday an expansion of American military might in Vietnam may bring Red China into the war and lead to World War III.

His remarks were in a prepared Senate speech. Cooper, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a former ambassador to India, said the history of Korea indicates that the Chinese would intervene if they feel North Vietnam is about to be crushed.

"To prevent this, Cooper said, the United States should 'confine and restrain its bombing — if bomb it must — to infiltration routes near the demilitarized zone.'"

He said if this met with an "affirmative response" from North Vietnam then the bombing of North Vietnam should be suspended.

He said this would involve risks. But he added, "The danger inherent in seeking a new initiative toward peace by a limitation of the bombing in North Vietnam is not as great as the danger of China's intervention as a result of the war's expansion. He said this would involve risks. But he added, "The danger inherent in seeking a new initiative toward peace by a limitation of the bombing in North Vietnam is not as great as the danger of China's intervention as a result of the war's expansion. Nor would this new attempt to achieve negotiations be as dangerous as an increased involvement by the Soviet Union, and the greater peril of World War III."

Local Girls
Are Entered
In Pageant

Marsha Gunder and Anita Moats of this community are among contestants competing for the title of Miss South Central Ohio. Linda Trimmer of Route 4 is the reigning beauty queen.

The girls attended a pre-pageant tea in Chillicothe and were assigned hostesses who will assist them throughout the event. The hostesses are wives of Chillicothe Jayce members, sponsors of the pageant. Officials announced there are still spots open for four or five more contestants.

Norman Mitchell, general chairman, briefed the pretty entries on the pageant. Mrs. Mitchell, hostess chairman, described pageant preparations and William Bitticker outlined staging plans.

Miss Trimmer told the girls of her experiences in the Miss Ohio event. The South Central Ohio contest is a preliminary to the Miss Ohio and Miss America Beauty Pageants.

This Saturday the girls will attend a buffet in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mitchell and then travel to the Miss Western Ohio Pageant in Wilmington.

Tickets for the Miss South Central Ohio contest are on sale at Sill's Shoe Store, Chillicothe.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists will investigate whether carbon-monoxide fumes from the cars and trucks on crowded highways affect expectant mothers, survival of babies and birth weights.

Dr. Edward Blomquist of the Public Health Service told a Senate committee that preliminary studies already show that the fumes affect a driver's vision and mental alertness. Future studies will try to determine whether the effects are serious enough to cause accidents.

Blomquist testified Monday before a Senate subcommittee which is considering legislation for federal control of air pollution.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Negro teacher says the civil rights struggle may reap so much discontent and loss of faith that it eventually will be reduced to a civil war between whites and Negroes.

"If it's comforting to you, it's going to be quite a while off yet — though not so far off as to be outside of our life span," said Dr. Nathan Hare, assistant professor of sociology at Howard University in Washington.

In a copyrighted interview with U.S. News & World Report, Hare, 33, also predicted that Stokely Carmichael would be the Negro leader "for the near future, at least."

Carmichael became the leading advocate of black power while chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, a post he left last week. He was a student of Hare's at Howard University.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., has received thousands of Mothers Day cards from mothers who want peace in the world.

"For my Mothers Day gift this year, I don't want candy or flowers," the cards said. "I want an end to killing. We who have given life must be dedicated to preserving it. Please talk peace."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is an outspoken critic of the Vietnam war.

His office estimated Monday he received 10,000 to 12,000 cards, apparently from members of a group called "Another Mother for Peace," based in Los Angeles.

Capital Footnotes
Pentagon sources say they wouldn't be surprised if Cyrus R. Vance, deputy secretary of defense, requests retirement because of a severe back ailment. Vance, 50, underwent hospital treatment for the ailment in March but still has trouble walking.

Twenty-five loud-speakers were installed along the White House fence today so tourists waiting in line can hear a five-minute record describing the mansion. The equipment was a gift from Walker Cottrell, an electronics executive in Richmond, Va., and will be tried on an experimental basis, the White House said.

Capital Quote
"I am here to talk about a war. It is a costly war and it must be financed in a manner consistent with preserving sound, balanced and fruitful economic growth at home." — Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler in requesting Congress for a permanent debt ceiling of $365 billion.

Driver Cited For Reckless Car Operation
Willard A. Dennison, 23, Mt. Sterling, was cited today for reckless operation of a motor vehicle.

Judge Sterling M. Lamb fined Dennison $50 and costs. He later suspended $50 of the fine.

Two motorists were cited for failure to observe stop signs. Lester E. Merritt, 53, of Baltimore and Larry E. Taylor, 26, of 401 Edward Road, each was fined $15 and costs.

Steven E. Poling, 19, Chillicothe, was handed a fine of $15 and costs for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Violators appearing in Municipal Court to answer excessive speed citations were: Millie M. Snyder, 32, Chillicothe $15 and costs; Neal R. Bayless, 32, Chillicothe, $15 and costs; Edwin D. Thomas, 34, Mansfield, $10 and costs; and John William Stevens, 33, Chillicothe, $10 and costs.

Citations issued for speed violations and disposed of as bond forfeitures were: Sandra S. Payne, 27, Chillicothe, $19; Charles A. Hurley, 21, of 221 N. Washington St., $15; George O. Gregg, 30, Hope, Ark., $19; Don E. Dial, 27, Las Vegas, Nev., $19; Tommy E. Chavez, 28, Columbus, $24; Thomas M. Turner, 33, Chillicothe, $24; Clarence H. Seagraves, 24, Columbus, $24; James A. Search River For Boy's Body
DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Rescue units resumed the search in the Great Miami River today for the body of a 14-year-old Moraine City boy who either jumped or was knocked from a railroad trestle as an oncoming train approached Monday.

The victim, Bruce Estes, was crossing the trestle with Ricky Fagg, 11, when a passenger train approached. Fagg fled to safety on his bicycle.

dominate all of Europe or all of Asia."

Wheeler found the current situation in Thailand highly reminiscent of South Vietnam in the early 1960s.

Rusk and Wheeler were quoted in the May 30 edition of Look magazine.

Cooper, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., Mansfield and others agreed in Senate debate that any further acceleration of the war makes it more likely that Red China may intervene and that the Soviet Union would be drawn in, thus bringing on a world war.

Rusk, whose previous judgment on Chinese intentions in Korea was questioned by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, had been scheduled for an appearance today at a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to review the Vietnam issue.

Church said Rusk was a Far East expert in the State Department when it advised President Truman that Red China would not intervene in the Korean War even if U.S. troops fought their way to the Yalu River.

Mansfield disagreed in part with Cooper's suggestion for a limitation on the bombing. He said if it failed to bring any response he feared American public opinion would demand even greater military measures against North Vietnam.

But Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said he thought Cooper's proposal was worth a try. He said having 500,000 troops in Vietnam was a hundred miles from Red China's border was a great risk.

"If there were 500,000 Chinese troops 400 miles from our border, say in Mexico, we would have reacted most strongly," he said.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a persistent critic of Johnson's war policies, said if the United States took the Vietnam issue to the U.N. Security Council and it was vetoed there by the Soviets, it could then be brought before the General Assembly.

Junior High
Music Event
Due Friday

The first music festival for Circleville Junior High School musicians has been scheduled for Friday night at 7:30 p. m. in the Mill St. gymnasium.

Performing in the program will be the Junior High School Band, a 7th and 8th Grade Chorus, the Junior High School Stage Band, the Ninth Grade Choir and several soloists. A variety of music is planned for the evening to make the program interesting and enjoyable.

Director of instrumental music is Clifford Kerns. Vocal music is under the direction of Truman Eberly. Piano accompanists are Linda Hoffman and Patty Painter.

The public is invited to attend. A small admission will be charged to help defray necessary expenses.

Wedding Plans
Panned Out

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Don Monroe and his fiancée, Janet Georges, of Salina, gave their families only two days notice that they planned to get married.

The relatives responded quickly. The day before the marriage the couple got three gifts. All three were electric frying pans.

New Juvenile Rulings
Elicit Varied Response

NEW YORK (AP) — Legal authorities generally expressed satisfaction today with the Supreme Court's extension of constitutional protections to juveniles. Dissenters were outspoken however, one calling it "a dreadful blow to the concept of juvenile court."

Many judges across the nation said in an Associated Press survey that the ruling would entail no change in their procedures and that their courts were already practicing the principles laid down by the high court Monday.

But Superior Court Judge Lloyd Shorett of Seattle, Wash., said, "I think it is a dreadful blow to the concept of juvenile court. It is a long step in the wrong direction. It means the entire concept of attempted reformation by juvenile courts in effect since 1900 will go out the window."

In its 8 to 1 decision, the Supreme Court held that juveniles, like adults, are entitled to the following Bill of Rights safeguards:

1. Notice of the charges placed against them.
2. The right to have an attorney's assistance.
3. The right to confront and cross-examine complainants and other witnesses.
4. Protection against self-incrimination, including the privilege of remaining silent.
5. The right to a transcript of the proceedings.
6. The right to have the case reviewed in higher courts.

Shorett was most unhappy over point 2—the right to attorney.

"Many more juveniles facing the court will have lawyers. They will be advised to say nothing and many will be turned loose for lack of other evidence," he said.

An opposite view was taken by John Pemberton, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union. In a statement issued here, he said the decision "may well be the most important in the present term of the Supreme Court."

It is important, he explained, "because the law must be seen to practice what it preaches if it is to create incentives in juveniles to rehabilitate themselves."

Another who applauded the decision was Judge Orm W. Ketcham in Washington, D.C. He predicted one long-range effect would be to create greater sympathy in legislatures for juvenile courts and for financing related facilities such as diagnostic centers.

"I am very pleased they are insisting that lawyers be more involved," he said. "Lawyers are more articulate than social workers with legislatures," he added in explanation of his prediction.

A dissenter was Judge Benjamin Schwartz of Cincinnati.

He said if this met with an "affirmative response" from North Vietnam then the bombing of North Vietnam should be suspended.

He said this would involve risks.

But he added, "The danger inherent in seeking a new initiative toward peace by a limitation of the bombing in North Vietnam is not as great as the danger of China's intervention as a result of the war's expansion. Nor would this new attempt to achieve negotiations be as dangerous as an increased involvement by the Soviet Union, and the greater peril of World War III."

"We cannot assume that the turmoil and struggle in Communist China will prevent it from intervening," he said.

Lost Girl Found
A 3-year-old girl who wandered away from her South Scioto St. home was claimed by her mother Monday shortly after the child was brought to Circleville Police Headquarters.

Mrs. Gerald Doering, Route 3, found little Shelly Trego, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Trego, walking in the downtown area. She took her to the police station at 7:35 p. m. At 7:54 p. m. Mrs. Trego came to get her daughter.

She had heard the local radio station broadcast denoting the lost girl.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

It's Time for Dad To Shape Up

DEAR ABBY: My husband spends every holiday — Easter, Thanksgiving, Christmas, etc. with his ex-wife and their three children. When I grumble because me and my two children by a former marriage are left alone, he says, "Why didn't you get YOUR children's father to come and spend the holidays with you and HIS children the way I do."

I want to be fair, Abby, but I also want to be treated fairly. Where do you think my husband's loyalties should lie?

ACHING HEART
DEAR ACHING: How old are his children? And how old are yours? A man who marries a woman with young children (under 10) should assume the role of a father to those children. And if he has young children of his own (and if their mother hasn't already replaced him with another "father") he should see them occasionally, too.

But a man who is seriously trying to make a second marriage work should concentrate on being a father to the children of his present wife. Running back and forth (usually out of a sense of guilt) confuses the kiddies and enbitters the wife.

DEAR ABBY: I feel that a 17-year-old girl should be allowed to shut her bedroom door if she chooses.

My mother and I live alone in a four-room house and I am not allowed to shut my bedroom door unless I am studying. My mother claims that I am "shutting her out."

Abby, I love my mother very much, and I am not "shutting her out." I just want a little privacy. My mother is very fair about almost everything except this. Please print your answer. If you say am wrong, I'll promise to do as you say with no more arguments. When I try to discuss it with my mother we both end up stretching our vocal cords. Thank you.

SEVENTEEN
DEAR SEVENTEEN: I think you should be allowed to shut your bedroom door whenever you wish.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my father-in-law. He can't keep his creeping hands off me. I am 24 years old, happily married and am not particularly sexy-looking, and I in no way encourage his advances. No one would believe he is this kind of person. They would say he is only giving me "fatherly pats" but I know better.

I have a father of my own and he doesn't act this way. My father-in-law twists every remark to make it sound dirty and he tries to corner me to squeeze and kiss me. (Molesting is what it actually is!)

I don't want to cause a family fight, but I just hate being in this dirty old man's company. What can I do? He is 60, which is old enough to know better.

MOLESTED
DEAR MOLESTED: Your father-in-law is either a "dirty old man" or he could be sick. Give him fair warning that if he touches you again, you'll tell your husband. And if he does — tell your husband.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio conditions:

Except for generally clear skies in the northwest section, variable cloudiness at Cincinnati, Columbus, Mansfield, Akron and Bellaire overnight. But dry weather was the rule today.

Temperatures were quite chilly about daybreak with many sections in the northern counties dipping into the mid-30s. Toledo had 33, Cleveland 37, Youngstown 34, while Cincinnati had 42, Columbus 40, Marietta 44 and Bellaire 45.

A relatively dry and cool air mass will cover Ohio through tonight. Considerable sunshine was in store today with temperatures in the upper 50s north and the 60s central and south.

Clear skies tonight will permit maximum cooling and temperatures tonight will range from the mid-30s to the upper 40s.

Temperatures on Wednesday are expected to reach slightly higher levels than today under partly cloudy skies.

OHIO WEATHER FORECAST

OHIO — Clear east, becoming partly cloudy west tonight; low in middle and upper 30s north-east, lower 40s southwest. Wednesday partly cloudy, a little warmer.

CENTRAL OHIO — Fair, cool tonight, low near 40. Partly cloudy, a little warmer Wednesday, high in upper 60s.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Fair, cool tonight, low 40-45. Wednesday partly cloudy, a little warmer, high 65-69.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Fair, cool tonight, low 37-44. Wednesday partly cloudy, warmer.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Fair, not quite so cool tonight, low 38-43. Partly cloudy, not much change in temperature Wednesday.

OHIO CASH GRAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No 2 red wheat unchanged to 1-2 higher 1.48-1.53, mostly 1.51-1.53; No 2 yellow corn mostly 1 lower 1.21 - 1.26 per bu, mostly 1.22-1.25; No 2 oats mostly unchanged 67 - 78, mostly 65-71; No 1 soybeans unchanged to 1-2 lower 2.65-2.74, mostly 2.67-2.70.

Seagram Supply Is Running Low

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook said Monday some stores in Ohio already are out of pints and fifths of Seagrams 7 Crown Whiskey.

The state has refused to re-order the brands in those measurements because of price increases asked by Seagrams.

But half-gallons in the four popular Seagrams brands are available, Cook said. "They're (Seagrams) not raising prices on them. We just sent in an order for between $500,000 and $600,000 worth of half-gallons," Cook said. "We regret it, but they keep refusing to sell the other sizes at previous prices." Cook contends the raises asked by Seagrams are unreasonable.

"I need $900 to fix the house this Spring! Who'll lend a hand?"

We will!

Spread the cost of things like home repairs into sensible monthly installments designed to fit your budget. Just call or come in for the cash you need!

ONE-WAY TRAFFIC — Jack McGuire, chairman of the Circleville Park Board, points to a "do not enter" sign denoting one-way traffic on Picnic Ave. at Ted Lewis Park. Traffic will be one-way south. A four-way stop will be in effect at the intersection with Recreation Road. Park board members feel the measures will assure smooth traffic movement in the park and provide better safety conditions.

Circleville's park and recreational program will be an expanded operation this year.

Two additional parks will be functioning this spring—Smith Memorial on Maplewood Ave. and a facility at Garden City. The other two are Ted Lewis and the Playground on S. Washington St.

All four of the recreational areas are under jurisdiction of the Circleville Park Board. Jack McGuire of McGuire's Insurance Service heads the administrative body as chairman. Members are Harold Anderson of Anderson's Candy Shop and Richard Davis, local Prudential Insurance agent.

Numerous improvements have been made in the park areas, including a new roof on Shelterhouse No. 1 at Ted Lewis.

TED LEWIS, largest of the city facilities, also boasts eight new stationary benches at the basketball and tennis courts, two new sections of concrete on the cage court, six new swing seats, the placement of additional trash barrels and the removal of dead trees along Hargus Creek.

Equipment at Garden City will include a swing set, Jungle Jim set, teeter boards and sliding board, all purchased from the now-closed Walnut St. School for $150. Residents of the area donated $100 to aid this program.

The park board also has purchased a new riding mower to help with the increased maintenance program brought about by the two new facilities.

Serving as caretakers for the four sites are Nolan (Nubby) Sims, Earl Radcliff and Clint Reed.

Chairman McGuire pointed out that board member Anderson handles all reservations for the three shelterhouses at Ted Lewis Park. His phone number is 474-3340.

An improved traffic control system has been initiated for the benefit of visitors to Ted Lewis Park this year. Streets throughout the area have been named.

THE STREET leading from Rosewood Ave. past the large shelterhouse has been named Picnic Ave. It will be utilized for one-way traffic going south.

The other street will be called Recreation Road. It will accommodate two-way traffic.

McGuire said a four-way stop will govern traffic at the intersection of Picnic Ave. and Recreation Road. He said the one-way movement on Picnic Ave. and the stop at the intersection

TRAFFIC REMINDER — This traffic sign denotes one-way vehicle movement on Picnic Ave. at Ted Lewis Park. All motorists are urged to abide by the rule, along with a four-way stop that will be enforced where the avenue intersects with Recreation Road.

'Pulse of Life' Film Set For Wednesday by Du Pont

The award winning movie "Pulse of Life" will be presented from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building for all DuPont employees and their families.

Dr. Manuel Sanguly, president of the Pickaway County Heart Assn., will demonstrate the life saving techniques illustrated in the movie. He will use a life-like manikin and allow those interested to practice life saving procedures.

Narrated by Raymond Massey, "Pulse of Life" presents the latest developments in life saving methods, including external heart massage and mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration. The methods are demonstrated in real-life situations where they are crucial to the saving of a life.

In dramatic re-enactments of drowning, fainting, suffocation and electric shock, the procedure is shown for treating a resuscitation emergency until the victim recovers or medical help is available.

Purpose of the film is to motivate the viewer to take time to learn and practice these new life saving methods under appropriate supervision.

Dr. Sanguly will be present to further demonstrate these techniques and to instruct those who wish to practice them with the help of the life-like dummy, "Resuscitation Annie."

The program will be presented by the Du Pont Off-the-Job Safety Committee. Sam R. Sberna is chairman. Members are: Paul F. Eastman, Richard E. Fox, David C. Munson, Thomas V. Beckley, John R. Kelchner, Robert G. Peet, William G. Clement, Jack D. Middaugh and Robert R. Roeser.

This month's program is under the direction of Eastman, Middaugh and Munson.

Juveniles Gain Court Protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court extended to juveniles Monday substantially the same constitutional protections given adults in criminal trials.

The landmark decision is certain to lead to broad reformation of juvenile court proceedings across the land.

The vote was 8 to 1, with three of the justices in the majority differing with the controlling opinion, given by Justice Abe Fortas, in some respects.

The dissenter was Justice Potter Stewart.

Using an Arizona juvenile case as a springboard, the court concluded that juveniles, like adults, are entitled to the following Bill of Rights safeguards:

1. Notice of the charges placed against them.
2. The right to have an attorney's assistance.
3. The right to confront and cross-examine complainants and other witnesses.
4. Protection against self-incrimination, including the privilege of remaining silent.
5. The right to a transcript of the proceedings.
6. The right to have the case reviewed in higher courts.

Fortas announced the historic decision to a courtroom packed with tourists and newly admitted attorneys.

"Neither the Bill of Rights nor the U.S. Constitution is for adults only," he declared dramatically from the bench.

Over the Hill at 45?

Time was when the occasionally disconsolate individual in his late 30s was cheered by the assurance, Life Begins at 40. That trusty weapon is losing its edge for cutting the blues.

Now, the group nearing 40 gets the somber warning that employers are beginning to look very closely at the 45-year-old class of workers. Many of these are now considered "over the hill" by reason of unemployment or lack of any particular skill.

The growing accent on youth is unavoidable, but this is ridiculous. The nation is faced on one hand with a growing number of active, professionally capable people forced to retire at 65, despite their ability to continue to be productive, and on the other with a growing number forced to "retire" at 45 because they cannot be productive.

If this is a dangerous trend as society

becomes more oriented to its millions of young workers, now is the time to begin anticipating its consequences. Because of the number of unskilled and semi-skilled jobs being phased out each year, retraining becomes a matter of survival — not only for the workers but for the society on which those workers will have to depend if they are unemployed.

The prospect of mass forced "retirement" of 45-year-old persons suggests a staggering increase in the cost of welfare and jobless benefits. And the possible social and psychological consequences in terms of alcoholism, law enforcement and mental health — to name just a few — are equally frightening.

There may prove to be more truth than one realized in the aphorism, "The devil makes work for idle hands," unless society decides to do so first.

Keep Swinging

During the early days of World War II many U. S. soldiers were amazed when they landed on some tiny Pacific atoll or entered an Asian country to discover that the people knew a lot more about Americans than one would expect them to know.

The Americans' "advance agent" had been movies which had penetrated to the far corners of the earth. Movies still play an important role in spreading the American influence, but so do other facets of the culture, such as jazz and the Voice of America.

The trend of the VOA is to junk the old staid programs in favor of more lively broadcasts. "Jeepers creepers" has become a catchword in Russian cafes. The Russians heard the expression on a Frank Sinatra record broadcast by VOA.

"The VOA is telling millions of people about the verve of America in a way only those of middle years can remember," said one VOA official. The method which seems the most likely to succeed as the VOA seeks to attract friends is to keep swinging.

Memory Makes Man Human

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the chief sources of man's greatness is his ability to share his memories.

This power to reincarnate the past, to make it live again, and to hand it down to others makes the human race unique, and is the source of many of its greatest satisfactions. For what but ambulant vegetables would we be except for memory?

Your powers to recall are pretty good if you can look back and remember when —

A walrus mustache was taken as a sign of robust manliness but anyone with a smaller hirsute adornment on his upper lip was suspected of being either foppish or a foreigner.

A man with false teeth usually soaked them overnight in a glass of salt water on a table by his bedside.

Office files were neatly pinned together instead of being stapled or held in place by a wire clip.

Women were largely content to wear the same color and flavor of lipstick — raspberry red.

A comedian could achieve fame — and hold it for years — with a single vaudeville routine. His fans didn't want him to do anything different.

A girl felt it hurt her marital chances if she had to wear glasses.

Ice cream was sold in paper cartons. Most milk wasn't.

Public indignation ran high when the price of a drugstore cup of coffee went from a nickel to a dime.

Streetcar motormen laughed at predictions that their trolleys would be replaced by buses.

The average housewife's idea of a real swinging day was to go downtown and have a 50-cent lunch at the local department store.

Adults spent more time on the telephone than teen-agers. Joan Crawford was most famous for her ability to dance the Charleston.

On national election nights everyone stood outside the local newspaper as the cub reporter importantly posted the latest returns in the window.

Other husbands felt that the first guy in the block who bought his wife one of those new-fangled electric refrigerators was simply spoiling her.

Any kid who went to college was expected to earn his own way.

Those were the days! Remember?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SECRETARY of the Interior Udall, an aide of his tells me, was standing outside a native crafts shop in San Juan when an American tourist trapped him and, apparently mistaking him for a native Puerto Rican because of his deep tan, asked him very carefully, "Pardon, señor. Can possible you tell me where comes el taxi?" Udall playfully answered, "Si, senora. You go across street, and ring, ring telephone. Taxi she come pronto."

The lady thanked him profusely, then boasted to her husband, "You see, Osbert? If you speak slowly enough they understand you perfectly."

"Why," demanded William Lyon Phelps at a book publishers' convention, "do you fellows use clear large type in books for children—whose eyes are excellent—and tiny print for adult books—whose readers need the large?"

A famous coach of Yale's championship swimming team was telling one of his sophomores how to teach a pretty girl who never had been in the water before. After fifteen minutes of explicit instructions, the boy said, "Coach, I'm not sure you understand. The girl is my sister." "Shucks," snapped the coach. "Just throw her in."

Edge for Nixon?

Between now and the kick-off of the Republican Presidential primaries in New Hampshire, we shall be reading reams of copy on the chances of Nixon, Romney, and all the rest of the hopefuls. But even some of the anti-Nixon pros, such as Nelson Rockefeller's George Hinman, are mournfully conceding that Nixon already has the edge. The polls show that Romney is still the most popular with the people, but Nixon has southern convention strength pretty much in his pocket, which gives him at least half of what he needs. So how is he going to be headed off?

The only way to do it is to come up with a candidate who could incontestably beat Lyndon Johnson. For a few weeks there was an undercover Rockefeller boom. Now the effort is to prove that George Wallace is setting it up for Romney. By manipulating the Third Party threat posed by the former Governor of Alabama, it can be shown that Nixon would be bereft of enough votes in the South by Wallace to ruin the old Goldwater "southern strategy". Romney, of course, would do worse than Nixon in the states of the Old Confederacy. But the argument goes that Romney can win in the industrial North and East, where Nixon can't.

A lot, however, depends on just how ornery people are going to feel in 1968. The dopests who give Romney a better chance than Nixon against Johnson in a three-cornered race that would include George Wallace haven't reckoned with the distinct likelihood that there will be four parties in the field even as there were in 1948. Given a further exacerbation of the Vietnam mood, the various "peace" organizations will almost certainly present a spoiler candidate of their own out of spite. If the Reverend Martin Luther King could be persuaded to run against field, what effect would it have on the electoral college vote? and would it make any difference whether the Republicans ran Romney or Nixon?

In 1948, as an editorial writer for Life Magazine, I was charged with setting forth plausible reasons for thinking that Republican Presidential nominee Tom Dewey had it in the bag. Dewey couldn't miss. The Progressive Party's candidate, Henry Wallace, would take hard-core Left votes away from Harry Truman in the North and East. The Dixiecrat candidate, Strom Thurmond, would lick Truman in the Deep South. Well, Henry Wallace did help Dewey in New York State and in Michigan, and Thurmond captured the electoral votes of South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana. Some funny things happened elsewhere, however. Henry Wallace had a big following among the Hollywood "liberals," but he failed to parlay this support into a big enough spoiler margin to let Dewey win the California electoral vote.

And, by taking votes from Republicans in Virginia and Florida, Thurmond only succeeded in throwing those states to Harry Truman.

On the day after the election, which Truman so unaccountably won, Henry Luce, who regarded the Life editorial page as his soapbox, grabbed me in the elevator and said: "We have group journalism. We've got to say how wrong we went on the election, and you are stuck with it."

Having had one disastrous experience with a four-cornered Presidential race, I'm leery about another. By geometrical analysis, Johnson would actually benefit from a four-cornered contest. George Wallace would pull Rightist votes away from the Republican candidate, Martin Luther King would capture the peacenik crowd which would otherwise go to a Republican just to spite LBJ, and the vast patriotic center would stay put for the Democrats because "you don't change horses in mid-stream."

But this is the sort of pure mechanical thinking that led the dopests astray in 1948. What if the 1968 realities were to hinge on states like California, Virginia, and Florida, even as in 1948? With George Wallace winning the Deep South, and Johnson taking much of the industrial North, the final decision might rest on California, the plains states and the Northwest. In which case, who is the better Republican candidate? This will depend on the future behavior of the aspirants. But, at the moment, there is no point in saying that Romney is better than Nixon, or vice versa. The winning margins could be supplied by negative reactions to Johnson, or by attitudes toward such things as "open housing," or by foreign policy preferences. And where is the computer that can come up now with an answer?

NEW YORK (AP) — With so many industrialists collecting art for the sake of business as well as art, it is understandable that windlers should move in. Fake art is a profitable business.

Even those industrialists who are acknowledged authorities on the subtleties of art, and who collect for love rather than money, are considered quite vulnerable.

The most recent alleged swindle involves paintings purchased by Algor H. Meadows of Dallas, Tex., a highly successful oilman, who some New York dealers claim was swindled out of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

There is an enormous demand today for such as Miro's, Derain's, Chagalls, Modiglianis, Picassos. So great is the demand, in fact, that it far exceeds the supply. And so the stage is set.

Clever swindlers might commission a fake, obtain elaborate pedigrees, show the fake in respectable place, and then put it on the market as the real thing. Desire overcomes discretion and the fake is purchased.

The painting then might adorn the reception hall of a corporation, or more often will hang in spurious splendor in the industrialist's home, to be admired by his insurance agent and perhaps only a few friends.

As authentic paintings hang they grow in value, because the art market is inflated with willing cash buyers. Within the past year a small Renoir, 15 by 18 inches, sold for $290,000 in Paris.

In New York, Parke-Bernet auction galleries reported in the last complete season it obtained its greatest gross sales in the 29 years of its existence, some $23,519,367. A Cezanne was sold for $800,000.

Christie's, a London auctioneer, boasted recently of its success in obtaining important pictures from Americans, some of London. The reason, is said, was higher prices than in New York.

"It also reflects the way the art market booms even when money is tight," said John Richardson, U.S. representative. "There is every indication prices will go still higher. The moral is that artist offer a safer investment than the stock market."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I suspect that there is something wrong with the hearing of my second son who is only four months old. He seems happy and playful but does not blink with loud noises or clapping of the hands.

My pregnancy was perfectly normal and the delivery took only five hours. Our doctor says there are no signs of brain injury. Nevertheless, we find that day and night we keep testing to learn why our child does not respond as well as our first born at the same age. How shall we proceed?

Mrs. V. E. L., Minnesota
Dear Mrs. L.: As an ear doctor this problem has been presented to me many times during a long period of practice. I understand how distressing it is not to be sure if your suspicions are correct.

If you continue in a state of panic you will find yourself doing a great injustice to the rest of the family. I have seen mothers and fathers who, out of such concern, pattern their entire lives around the possibility that deafness exists.

At this early age it is almost impossible to be sure that the hearing is either intact or deficient. Blinking of the eyes is an important reaction but not so definite that you can be sure.

There are no reliable tests with sounds, bells, tuning forks or specialized audiometric equipment that can make the diagnosis positive at this age. Later, his speech becomes one of the most important evidences of his hearing.

A child learns to speak by mimicking the sounds he has heard from his parents. If he speaks "mama and papa" you can be sure that his hearing is good.

Speech, therefore, becomes a most important guide to hearing. It is for this reason that it is imperative that you continue to talk to your young child, always assuming that he can hear.

After the age of two, more tests become available and can with greater reliability point the way for the re-education of a deaf child. Let me assure you at this point that I do not mean to suggest that your child is deaf and may need any of this routine. Rather, I am talking advantage of your question to let my readers know more about these problems and how they can be confronted.

Psycho-galvanic tests can be performed on the skin by measuring electrical "potential" for the study of deafness. This remarkable and complicated technique can be used in the very young who are yet unable to respond to sounds.

These tests are sufficiently good so that when they suggest the presence of deafness a hearing aid can be used early in infancy. Even at the age of three hearing aids offer great advantage to children who are born with deafness.

There is nothing more distressing to a doctor than the painful need to tell parents that their child may be deaf. The despair is sometimes overwhelming at first. Later, the growth and development of a deaf child into a happy adolescent becomes a testimonial to the remarkable advances that have been made in the last 50 years in the rehabilitation of the deaf.

The American Hearing Society and the Volta Bureau in Washington, D. C., have vast literature for the direction of people with hearing problems in all age groups. Schools, universities and medical centers have hearing and speech centers which devote themselves to the education of the congenitally deaf.

These children, when given the advantage of early and persistent education, turn out to be productive and happy human beings despite the immensity of their hearing deficiency. They, with great courage, overcome the handicap of the magnitude of silence.

Forced retirement can be a burden.

Britain and Iceland are again feuding over fishing rights in the frosty Atlantic waters off the coast of Iceland. This isn't just another "cold" war—it's a very hot international argument.

At stake is the great wealth of cod and herring in those waters. As a result, this could be a fight to a fin-fish. (Sorry)

Over the Hill at 45?

Time was when the occasionally disconsolate individual in his late 30s was cheered by the assurance, Life Begins at 40. That trusty weapon is losing its edge for cutting the blues.

Now, the group nearing 40 gets the somber warning that employers are beginning to look very closely at the 45-year-old class of workers. Many of these are now considered "over the hill" by reason of unemployment or lack of any particular skill.

The growing accent on youth is unavoidable, but this is ridiculous. The nation is faced on one hand with a growing number of active, professionally capable people forced to retire at 65, despite their ability to continue to be productive, and on the other with a growing number forced to "retire" at 45 because they cannot be productive.

If this is a dangerous trend as society

becomes more oriented to its millions of young workers, now is the time to begin anticipating its consequences. Because of the number of unskilled and semi-skilled jobs being phased out each year, retraining becomes a matter of survival — not only for the workers but for the society on which those workers will have to depend if they are unemployable.

The prospect of mass forced "retirement" of 45-year-old persons suggests a staggering increase in the cost of welfare and jobless benefits. And the possible social and psychological consequences in terms of alcoholism, law enforcement and mental health—to name just a few — are equally frightening.

There may prove to be more truth than one realized in the aphorism, "The devil makes work for idle hands," unless society decides to do so first.

Keep Swinging

During the early days of World War II many U. S. soldiers were amazed when they landed on some tiny Pacific atoll or entered an Asian country to discover that the people knew a lot more about Americans than one would expect them to know.

The Americans' "advance agent" had been movies which had penetrated to the far corners of the earth. Movies still play an important role in spreading the American influence, but so do other facets of the culture, such as jazz and the Voice of America.

The trend of the VOA is to junk the old staid programs in favor of more lively broadcasts. "Jeepers creepers" has become a catchword in Russian cafes. The Russians heard the expression on a Frank Sinatra record broadcast by VOA.

"The VOA is telling millions of people about the verve of America in a way only those of middle years can remember," said one VOA official. The method which seems the most likely to succeed as the VOA seeks to attract friends is to keep swinging.

Memory Makes Man Human

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the chief sources of man's greatness is his ability to share his memories.

This power to reincarnate the past, to make it live again, and to hand it down to others makes the human race unique, and is the source of many of its greatest satisfactions. For what but ambulant vegetables would we be except for memory?

Your powers to recall are pretty good if you can look back and remember when —

A walrus mustache was taken as a sign of robust manliness but anyone with a smaller hirsute adornment on his upper lip was suspected of being either foppish or a foreigner.

A man with false teeth usually soaked them overnight in a glass of salt water on a table by his bedside.

Office files were neatly pinned together instead of being stapled or held in place by a wire clip.

Women were largely content to wear the same color and flavor of lipstick — raspberry red.

A comedian could achieve fame — and hold it for years — with a single vaudeville routine. His fans didn't want him to do anything different.

A girl felt it hurt her marital chances if she had to wear glasses.

Ice cream was sold in paper cartons. Most milk wasn't.

Public indignation ran high when the price of a drugstore cup of coffee went from a nickel to a dime.

Streetcar motormen laughed at predictions that their trolleys would be replaced by buses.

The average housewife's idea of a real swinging day was to go downtown and have a 50-cent lunch at the local department store.

Adults spent more time on the telephone than teenagers.

Joan Crawford was most famous for her ability to dance the Charleston.

On national election nights everyone stood outside the local newspaper as the cub reporter importantly posted the latest returns in the window.

Other husbands felt that the first guy in the block who bought his wife one of those new-fangled electric refrigerators was simply spoiling her.

Any kid who went to college was expected to earn his own way.

Those were the days! Remember?

Edge for Nixon?

By John Chamberlain

Between now and the kick-off of the Republican Presidential primaries in New Hampshire, we shall be reading reams of copy on the chances of Nixon, Romney, and all the rest of the hopefuls. But even some of the anti-Nixon pros, such as Nelson Rockefeller's George Hinman, are mournfully conceding that Nixon already has the edge. The polls show that Romney is still the most popular with the people, but Nixon has southern convention strength pretty much in his pocket, which gives him at least half of what he needs. So how is he going to be headed off?

The only way to do it is to come up with a candidate who could incontestably beat Lyndon Johnson. For a few weeks there was an undercover Rockefeller boom. Now the effort is to prove that George Wallace is setting it up for Romney. By manipulating the Third Party threat posed by the former Governor of Alabama, it can be shown that Nixon would be bereft of enough votes in the South by Wallace to ruin the old Goldwater "southern strategy". Romney, of course, would do worse than Nixon in the states of the Old Confederacy. But the argument goes that Romney can win in the industrial North and East, where Nixon can't.

A lot, however, depends on just how ornery people are going to feel in 1968. The dopesters who give Romney a better chance than Nixon against Johnson in a three-cornered race that would include George Wallace haven't reckoned with the distinct likelihood that there will be four parties in the field even as there were in 1948. Given a further exacerbation of the Vietnam mood, the various "peace" organizations will almost certainly present a spoiler candidate of their own out of spite. If the Reverend Martin Luther King could be persuaded to run against field, what effect would it have on the electoral college vote? and would it make any difference whether the Republicans ran Romney or Nixon?

In 1948, as an editorial writer for Life Magazine, I was charged with setting forth plausible reasons for thinking that Republican Presidential nominee Tom Dewey had it in the bag. Dewey couldn't miss. The Progressive Party's candidate, Henry Wallace, would take hard-core Left votes away from Harry Truman in the North and East. The Dixiecrat candidate, Strom Thurmond, would lick Truman in the Deep South. Well, Henry Wallace did help Dewey in New York State and in Michigan, and Thurmond captured the electoral votes of South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana. Some funny things happened elsewhere, however. Henry Wallace had a big following among the Hollywood "liberals," but he failed to parlay this support into a big enough spoiler margin to let Dewey win the California electoral vote.

And, by taking votes from Republicans in Virginia and Florida, Thurmond only succeeded in throwing those states to Harry Truman.

On the day after the election, which Truman so unaccountably won, Henry Luce, who regarded the Life editorial page as his soapbox, grabbed me in the elevator and said: "We have group journalism. We've got to say how wrong we went on the election, and you are stuck with it."

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

In these days of hustle and bustle, and everyone in a continual rush, we often hear it said that most people think only of themselves, seldom doing anything without some thought of eventual personal gain.

However, time after time this statement is disproven when people give unselfishly of their time, talents and finances where a really worthwhile cause is involved.

This was proven again on Saturday, May 13, when the Pontious EUB Church held its auction sale at the Fairgrounds Coliseum. The proceeds from the sale surpassed our most optimistic expectations and represents a sizable addition to the building fund for our new sanctuary just recently completed.

We wish to publicly thank all who made it possible: those who donated articles for the sale, including the many generous Circleville and Stoutsville merchants and businessmen who donated new articles to sell or made cash contributions; the ladies and men of the church who helped in many ways; the newspaper and the radio stations for their help; and the generous things as "open housing," or by

DUNN & JONSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the U. S. forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur got ready to drive the North Korean invaders back into their own country and follow them there was some fear the Red Chinese might leap into the war on the side of North Korea.

But Dean Acheson, secretary of state under President Harry S. Truman, minimized the chance of the Chinese doing that. They'd be mad to try it and besides, he said, there was a lot of trouble going on inside Red China.

But the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai, said his people would not stand by if the "Western imperialists" invaded the North. But the U. S. and South Korean forces did invade.

The Chinese plunged into the war — they called their troops volunteers — and the result was an American disaster.

Now the U. S. forces are fighting in South Vietnam. At the moment there is no talk here of American troops invading North Vietnam but American planes have been bombing it steadily and once again Chou En-lai had something to say.

In an interview obtained by Simon Malley and published by the Chicago Daily New, Chou warned Red China might decide it is necessary to intervene in this war, too, with a horde of so-called volunteers.

Chou said the North Vietnamese could get this help from Red China any time they asked for it. But in his talk with Malley, a U. S. citizen who is a correspondent for some African newspapers, Chou said China might barge in on its own under some other circumstances.

He said the Chinese would intervene if the Americans invaded North Vietnam and the Chinese considered this a threat to their own security or if the Americans and Soviets tried to force North Vietnam into what he called a sell-out peace.

No U. S. official so far this time has attempted to minimize the danger implicit in Chou's words even though China, as in the Korean days, is having a lot of internal trouble.

Yet, ominous as Chou's warning was, it has to be looked at two ways — a perilous burden for any administration officials trying to plan for the war ahead with North Vietnam.

In the first place, Chou was saying he can play it any which way. Red China can intervene on invitation from North Vietnam or Red China might decide to intervene, even if North Vietnam didn't want it, for its own reasons.

This is pretty good psychology if he feels that by deepening American uncertainty about

Red China's intentions he can make the Americans supercautious, and as a result perhaps ineffective, in fighting the war with North Vietnam.

For he raised this at a time when critics of the war in this country are urging a pause in the bombing and raising the

In short, intended or not, he is giving the critics grisly support to serve his own purpose which is to see the United States reduce its war effort, a move that very well might enable the North Vietnamese to continue fighting indefinitely.

But his warning, instead of

Perhaps the most gruesome part of Chou's statement was his warning that should the war be fought through and North Vietnam decides to quit, the Chinese may step in if they don't like the peace terms.

Who on this side at this point could possibly feel sure any kind of peace terms would be acceptable to Red China. The very uncertainty of this, and the overhanging threat, may by itself toughen the American mood.

He complicated it, which is probably what he wanted to do since at this moment he may feel uncertainty in the best weapon to use against the United States by dividing American thinking.

Auto Insurance Decision To Be Appealed by AFL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An official of the Ohio AFL-CIO indicated Monday that the labor group will appeal a decision by the state superintendent of insurance allowing increased auto insurance rates.

The spokesman said the AFL-CIO would either take the appeal to state courts or file an anti-trust action against the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and National Automobile Underwriters Association in federal court.

A decision on which path to take is not expected for several days.

Last Saturday, Supt. William R. Morris dismissed the application of the labor group questioning auto insurance rates as excessive and unfairly discriminatory.

The insurance revisions boosted liability insurance rates an average 13.5 per cent and collision coverage 11.5 per cent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the U. S. forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur got ready to drive the North Korean invaders back into their own country and follow them there was some fear the Red Chinese might leap into the war on the side of North Korea.

But Dean Acheson, secretary of state under President Harry S. Truman, minimized the chance of the Chinese doing that. They'd be mad to try it and besides, he said, there was a lot of trouble going on inside Red China.

But the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai, said his people would not stand by if the "Western imperialists" invaded the North. But the U. S. and South Korean forces did invade.

The Chinese plunged into the war — they called their troops volunteers — and the result was an American disaster.

Now the U. S. forces are fighting in South Vietnam. At the moment there is no talk here of American troops invading North Vietnam but American planes have been bombing it steadily and once again Chou En-lai had something to say.

In an interview obtained by Simon Malley and published by the Chicago Daily New, Chou warned Red China might decide it is necessary to intervene in this war, too, with a horde of so-called volunteers.

Chou said the North Vietnamese could get this help from Red China any time they asked for it. But in his talk with Malley, a U. S. citizen who is a correspondent for some African newspapers, Chou said China might barge in on its own under some other circumstances.

He said the Chinese would intervene if the Americans invaded North Vietnam and the Chinese considered this a threat to their own security or if the Americans and Soviets tried to force North Vietnam into what he called a sell-out peace.

No U. S. official so far this time has attempted to minimize the danger implicit in Chou's words even though China, as in the Korean days, is having a lot of internal trouble.

Yet, ominous as Chou's warning was, it has to be looked at two ways — a perilous burden for any administration officials trying to plan for the war ahead with North Vietnam.

In the first place, Chou was saying he can play it any which way. Red China can intervene on invitation from North Vietnam or Red China might decide to intervene, even if North Vietnam didn't want it to, for its own reasons.

This is pretty good psychology if he feels that by deepening American uncertainty about

Red China's intentions he can make the Americans supercautious, and as a result perhaps ineffective, in fighting the war with North Vietnam.

For he raised this at a time when critics of the war in this country are urging a pause in the bombing and raising the

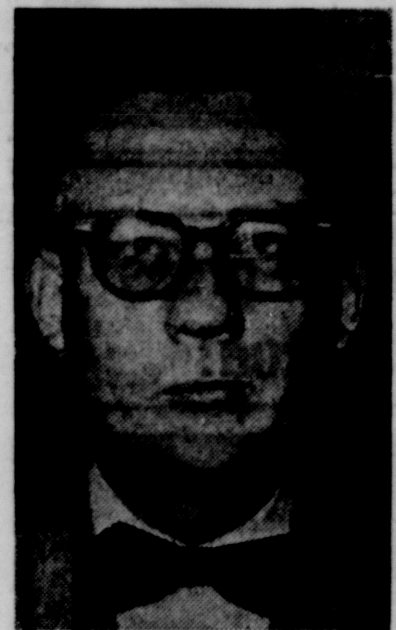

In short, intended or not, he is giving the critics grisly support to serve his own purpose which is to see the United States reduce its war effort, a move that very well might enable the North Vietnamese to continue fighting indefinitely.

But his warning, instead of decide to go ahead, make the kind of peace terms would be acceptable to Red China. The very uncertainty of this, and the overhanging threat, may by itself toughen the American mood.

He complicated it, which is probably what he wanted to do since at this moment he may feel uncertainty in the best weapon to use against the United States by dividing American thinking.

Auto Insurance Decision To Be Appealed by AFL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An official of the Ohio AFL - CIO indicated Monday that the labor group will appeal a decision by the state superintendent of insurance allowing increased auto insurance rates.

The spokesman said the AFL-CIO would either take the appeal to state courts or file an anti-trust action against the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and National Automobile Underwriters Association in federal court.

A decision on which path to take is not expected for several days.

Last Saturday, Supt. William R. Morris dismissed the application of the labor group questioning auto insurance rates as excessive and unfairly discriminatory.

The insurance revisions boosted liability insurance rates an average 13.5 per cent and collision coverage 11.5 per cent.

Safest Auto Race On Record Ever

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The auto race scheduled Friday in the Milwaukee Stadium parking lot for teen-agers may prove to be the safest contest on wheels.

High school students, organized in 20-member teams, will push small foreign cars for two hours around the track with engines off.

Dora Ann Kiser
Honored with Linen Shower

Miss Dora Ann Kiser, bride-elect of John Moss, Jr., was honored with a linen shower given by Mrs. George D. Kline at her home on Route 2. She was assisted by her daughters, Linda and Kay, who will be members of the wedding party.

The brides colors of white and aqua were carried out in the theme of "Hearts and Flowers." Miss Kiser was seated under an arch of white roses and satin bows, interwoven with greenery.

The bride-elect's table was centered with an arrangement of white magnolia leaves and aqua carnations, flanked by aqua colored candles in milk glass containers, surrounded by ivy.

White doves and blue birds were perched on a large branch which was painted aqua. Paper hearts of white and aqua were tied on the branches. Each heart had a verse about the gift and the giver, with clues as to where the gifts were hidden throughout the home.

The mothers of the bride and groom, Mrs. Jefferson Kiser and Mrs. John Moss, Sr., were presented arrangements of white roses and aqua mums.

As the guests were arriving, records from "The Sound of Music" and "My Cup Runneth Over" were played.

"Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was sung by the guests. Famous Couples and The Game of the Flowers were played, with prizes being won by Miss Kiser and Mrs. William Thornton.

White clay flower pots, filled with vanilla ice cream, covered with shredded chocolate and containing aqua flowers were used for refreshments. Nuts and vanilla wafers were also served. White parasols filled with aqua mints were favors.

Others attending were: Mrs. Arthur Haynes, Mrs. William Easter and Kathi; Mrs. Claris Bennett, Mrs. Les Hamilton and Sandie; Mrs. Homer Parmer, Mrs. William Barthelmas and Sandie Cowan.

Unable to attend, but sending gifts were: Mrs. George Mallett and Mrs. Ralph Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fausnaugh, Stoutsville, were Mother's Day dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noble E. Barr, 160 Town St.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Gaven and family of Newark called on Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hixenbaugh and son of Route 1, Stoutsville. Irwin Trimmer of Fort Hood, Tex., also called on the Hixenbaughs.

Year's Final Meeting
Installs DAC Officers

A musical program by Mrs. Harvey Minton, installation of officers and State and National reports were presented at the DAC luncheon in Canal Winchester.

For the final session of the year, members of Old Trails Chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists assembled May 10, at Shades Restaurant for a 12 noon luncheon with 24 members and 3 guests present. Mrs. Harvey Minton, Mrs. Virgil Lewis of Columbus and Mrs. Robert H. Hansberger of Millersport were the guests.

Table prayer was given by the chaplain, Mrs. Scott Reynolds.

Centering the luncheon table was an arrangement of pink and white carnations in a silver bowl with white candles in silver holders.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Reynolds, Miss Mary Alice Stein, Mrs. Robert D. Hansberger, Mrs. Clarence Rowles and Mrs. Eloise Rapp.

Mrs. John A. Dawson, regent, presided at the meeting and welcomed members and guest.

For devotions Mrs. Reynolds read a poem, followed by prayer.

Mrs. Dawson introduced Mrs. Harvey Minton of Columbus, who presented the program for the day. She played three numbers on a saw with a violin bow, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Martin Cromley.

Mrs. Minton said that the saw was and ordinary hand saw purchased from a hardware store.

All present joined in giving the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, led by Mrs. Verne Silbaugh.

Mrs. Samuel Fuller reported briefly on the State Assembly which she attended in March. She reported that Old Trails Chapter received second place in publicity in the state.

Mrs. Harry Emrick spoke of the National Assembly in Washington D. C. in April. She gave some excerpts from the address given by Mr. Mark Hatfield at the Candlelight Dinner April 11. He spoke of the condition of our country, and stated that people should earn a living and stop giving so much away.

The retiring Regent, Mrs. Dawson, expressed appreciation for the cooperation of all the members during her regime. A vote of thanks was given her for the fine work she did during the past two years.

Miss Mary Alice Stein conducted the installation services for the new officers.

Mrs. John Nye, the newly installed regent, responded briefly after which the meeting was closed with benediction by the chaplain, Mrs. Verne Silbaugh.

Members attending from Circleville and Ashville were: Mrs. Emerson Downing, Mrs. W. A. Thomas, Mrs. T. Leroy Cromley, Mrs. L. Hewitt Cromley and Mrs. Martin W. Cromley.

Reports of the National Republican Women's Conference of May 4-5-6, held in Washington, D. C., will be given by Mrs. W. F. Gillespie and Mrs. Donna L. Wagner.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Lawrence Liston, Mrs. B. T. Hedges and Mrs. J. B. Work.

Mr. Albert Fausnaugh of Stoutsville celebrated his 80th birthday May 12, with a family dinner in his home.

Present for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Seimer, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Seimer of Lancaster, Mrs. Vilva Seimer of Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. Noble E. Barr, Circleville and Mrs. Fausnaugh, of the home.

Mr. Fausnaugh's grandson, Robert L. Seimer of Fort Carson, Colo., who also had a birthday the same day called to wish his grandfather a "Happy Birthday."

During the day Mr. Ira Valentine, Stoutsville and Mrs. Mabel Spangler and Mr. Emmitt Shupe of Columbus were visitors.

Spring Theme
Used during EUB Banquet

A spring atmosphere pervaded the service center in The First Evangelical EUB Church for the Mother and Daughter Banquet, where the men of the church served the approximately 190 women present.

Branches of dogwood with butterflies filled the windows. Green and yellow were the colors used throughout the decorations. Candles, flowers and streamers were used on the tables. Small baskets of artificial flowers were set at each place as favors.

Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood, Jr., president of the society, gave words of welcome and offered the table grace.

A worship center was a lighted house with members of the family placed around it carrying out the theme of the program, "Mother and Home."

Mrs. Kirkwood led group singing preceding the program with Mrs. James Pierce as accompanist.

Mrs. Edwin Richardson gave a "Mother's Welcome" and her daughter Susan gave a "Daughter's Response."

Mrs. Howard Conley was leader for the evening's program. She presented "A Call to Worship" and offered prayer. The group sang "My Mother's Bible."

Mrs. Kenneth Crabtree recited a poem. Mrs. David Bond, Suzanne Schlegler and Mrs. Conley, presented a skit. Mrs. Robert Dumm read scripture from the book of Luke.

Miss Melissa Willoughby sang a solo. A poem was read by Mrs. Frank Hawks, with responses by her daughters, Mrs. Woodrow Carley and Miss Phyllis Hawks. A solo was then sung by Lucille Kirkwood.

Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe paid tribute to the members of the society who are past 70 years of age and presented each with a gift.

Mrs. Bond received a gift for having the youngest daughter and Mrs. O. F. Gibbs for having the most daughters.

Two groups of 4 generations were present and received gifts. Mrs. Betty Morrison closed the evening with prayer.

Mrs. Clarence Willoughby and her committee prepared the dinner. Mrs. Betty Morrison and her committee were in charge of decoration. Mrs. Donald Wellington and committee were in charge of ticket sales.

Mrs. Dawson introduced Mrs. Harvey Minton of Columbus, who presented the program for the day. She played three numbers on a saw with a violin bow, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Martin Cromley.

Dora Ann Kiser Honored with Linen Shower

Miss Dora Ann Kiser, bride-elect of John Moss, Jr., was honored with a linen shower given by Mrs. George D. Kline at her home on Route 2. She was assisted by her daughters, Linda and Kay, who will be members of the wedding party.

The brides colors of white and aqua were carried out in the theme of "Hearts and Flowers." Miss Kiser was seated under an arch of white roses and satin bows, interwined with greenery.

The bride-elect's table was centered with an arrangement of white magnolia leaves and aqua carnations, flanked by aqua colored candles in milk glass containers, surrounded by ivy.

White doves and blue birds were perched on a large branch which was painted aqua. Paper hearts of white and aqua were tied on the branches. Each heart had a verse about the gift and the giver, with clues as to where the gifts were hidden throughout the home.

The mothers of the bride and groom, Mrs. Jefferson Kiser and Mrs. John Moss, Sr., were presented arrangements of white roses and aqua mums.

As the guests were arriving, records from "The Sound of Music" and "My Cup Runneth Over" were played.

"Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was sung by the guests. Famous Couples and The Game of the Flowers were played, with prizes being won by Miss Kiser and Mrs. William Thornton.

White clay flower pots, filled with vanilla ice cream, covered with shredded chocolate and containing aqua flowers were used for refreshments. Nuts and vanilla wafers were also served. White parasols filled with aqua mints were favors.

Others attending were: Mrs. Arthur Haynes, Mrs. William Easter and Kathi; Mrs. Claris Bennett, Mrs. Les Hamilton and Sandie; Mrs. Homer Farmer, Mrs. William Barthelmas and Sandie Cowan.

Unable to attend, but sending gifts were: Mrs. George Mallett and Mrs. Ralph Davis.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fausnaugh, Stoutsville, were Mother's Day dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noble E. Barr, 160 Town St.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Gaven and family of Newark called on Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hixenbaugh and son of Route 1, Stoutsville. Irwin Trimmer of Fort Hood, Tex., also called on the Hixenbaughs.

Surprise Party Honors Birthday

The home of John D. Leist, Stoutsville, Route 1, was the scene of a surprise birthday party recently, honoring his daughter Pam.

The evening was enjoyed as Mr. Leist presented photographs and commented on a trip he made to Trinidad.

Gifts were presented to Pam and refreshments were served to: Mr. and Mrs. Forest Rinehart; Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Maxwell and daughter Patty; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters, Jr. and daughter Patty; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moats, daughter Twana and son Ray Lyn; Mr. and Mrs. Kester McCain and daughters Barbara and Yvonne; Mr. Leist and daughters Pam and Kathy Jo.

Family Dinner Fetes Birthday

Mr. Albert Fausnaugh of Stoutsville celebrated his 80th birthday May 12, with a family dinner in his home.

Present for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Seimer, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Seimer of Lancaster, Mrs. Vilos Seimer of Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. Noble E. Barr, Circleville and Mrs. Fausnaugh, of the home.

Mr. Fausnaugh's grandson, Robert L. Seimer of Fort Carson, Colo., who also had a birthday the same day called to wish his grandfather a "Happy Birthday."

During the day Mr. Ira Valentine, Stoutsville and Mrs. Mabel Spangler and Mr. Emmitt Shupe of Columbus were visitors.

Board of Directors AAUW Plan Meet

Board of Directors of the Circleville Branch AAUW will meet 8 p. m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Robert Rustin, 680 Ridgewood Drive.

Spring Theme Used during EUB Banquet

A spring atmosphere pervaded the service center in The First Evangelical EUB Church for the Mother and Daughter Banquet, where the men of the church served the approximate 190 women present.

Branches of dogwood with butterflies filled the windows. Green and yellow were the colors used throughout the decorations. Candles, flowers and streamers were used on the tables. Small baskets of artificial flowers were set at each place as favors.

Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood, Jr., president of the society, gave words of welcome and offered the table grace.

A worship center was a lighted house with members of the family placed around it carrying out the theme of the program, "Mother and Home".

Mrs. Kirkwood led group singing preceding the program with Mrs. James Pierce as accompanist.

Mrs. Edwin Richardson gave a "Mother's Welcome" and her daughter Susan gave a "Daughter's Response".

Mrs. Howard Conley was leader for the evening's program. She presented "A Call to Worship" and offered prayer. The group sang "My Mother's Bible."

Mrs. Kenneth Crabree recited a poem. Mrs. David Bond, Suzanne Schlegler and Mrs. Conley, presented a skit. Mrs. Robert Dunn read scripture from the book of Luke.

Miss Melissa Willoughby sang a solo. A poem was read by Mrs. Frank Hawks, with responses by her daughters, Mrs. Woodrow Carley and Miss Phyllis Hawks. A solo was then sung by Lucille Kirkwood.

Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe paid tribute to the members of the society who are past 70 years of age and presented each with a gift.

Mrs. Bond received a gift for having the youngest daughter and Mrs. O. F. Gibbs for having the most daughters.

Two groups of 4 generations were present and received gifts. Mrs. Betty Morrison closed the evening with prayer.

Mrs. Clarence Willoughby and her committee prepared the dinner. Mrs. Betty Morrison and her committee were in charge of decoration. Mrs. Donald Wellington and committee were in charge of ticket sales.

Methodist WSCS Circle 7 Meets In Cook Home

Circle 7 of The First Methodist Church WSCS held their latest meeting in the home of Mrs. William Cook.

Mrs. Della Wertman opened the meeting and led the group in prayer. The secretary report of the last meeting was read, followed by the treasurer report.

The group made plans for helping with the Sweetheart Banquet scheduled for June 17. The June Breakfast will be held Thursday, June 1 in the church social rooms at 9 a. m. This breakfast includes all Circles.

Mrs. Wertman thanked members for assistance during the past year.

The devotions were led by Mr. Reynold Howsman. For scripture she read John 6:35-66. She also read a poem entitled "There is a Town Called Don't You Worry" by I. J. Bartlett.

Mrs. Howsman then presented an article on the life of Jesus and what He means to people of various walks of life.

The Inspired Box was passed around and each member drew a tiny scroll and read from it a verse of scripture.

Refreshments were served to the ten members present by Mrs. Cook, Frances Rose and Eula Parks.

School Dropouts Can't Be Successful Criminals

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential crime commission report says wiretapping is needed to battle organized crime, which is so rich it needs business experts to run it.

Organized crime is so sophisticated in its operation that there will be no place at the top for the uneducated, the report said.

The crime panel, formally called the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice, released Sunday night the report on organized crime. It is the third of nine reports to be released following a sweeping study of all types of crime in the United States.

G. Robert Blakey, a law professor at Notre Dame University and a consultant to the commission, recommended federal legislation to permit carefully controlled, court-ordered wiretapping and electronic bugging to help combat organized crime. Blakey's views, like those of other consultants, were not necessarily endorsed by the full commission.

However, the commission has recommended legislation on wiretapping and bugging. President Johnson has asked Congress to outlaw all such surveillance except in cases where national security is involved. Another report scrutinized how criminals corrupted officials at all levels in a city given the fictitious name of Wincanton. Reports are the city in question is Reading, Pa., which has had serious corruption problems.

We Seem To Have Languages Woes Too

JAMESTOWN, Va. (AP) — The 360th anniversary has been commemorated here of the founding of the first permanent English settlement in the New World.

Gordon Gray, chairman of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, told an assembly that among this nation's greatest problems today is "fragmentation of respect for our established institutions."

"I suggest that when we go beyond honest question or dissent into disrespect," Gray said, "this leads to hostility and if unchecked to ultimate destruction."

Reds Revenge Old Loss To Pittsburgh Pirates

CINCINNATI (AP)—Remember that wild 14-1 game the Cincinnati Reds lost to Pittsburgh last year, the one in which Art Shamsky slugged three straight game-tying homers in vain? It's hard to forget one like that, and the Reds didn't. After Cincinnati overcame Roberto Clemente's three-homer, seven-RBI show and won 8-7 in 10 innings Monday night, Reds Manager Dave Bristol commented: "This does something to make up for that 14-1 beating Pittsburgh gave us last season."

Bristol still didn't know as of Monday when injured Deron Johnson and Tommy Helms would be back in the lineup, saying their status was on a day-to-day basis. But Johnson's absence may have helped rather than hurt Monday night. It solved Bristol's problem of how to play first basemen Tony Perez and Lee May, both bona fide sluggers, at the same time. Perez filled in for Johnson at third base. An playing at the same time, batting 4-5 in the Reds' order, Perez and May played the big roles in overbalancing the one-man show by Clemente. Perez singled and May followed with a home run in the ninth inning, tying the game. In the 10th Perez won it with a two-out RBI double. Perez woundup 4-for-5 with two runs batted in and three scored; May went 3-for-4, drove home four runs and scored two. Of his game-winning double, Perez said losing pitcher Juan Pizarro "threw me an off-speed pitch, then I guessed he would come through with his fast ball. He did. It was right over the middle of the plate." Perez mashed it, scoring Pete Rose.

BIG ONE THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY—It's a record lake trout, caught in Sunapee Lake, New Hampshire, by Zigmund Szoc of Gardner, Mass. The trout weighs 24 pounds 2 ounces.

Completed Mosquito Loop Team Rosters Announced

Roy Farmer, vice president of the Mosquito League of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program has completed rosters of the ten teams in the league. Although all teams have ten or more youths, Farmer pointed out that there is still room for approximately 30 or 40 more boys in the league. He will continue to accept registrations and place youngsters on teams in the league.

Don Strawser, vice president of the Little Leagues, has two teams in the minor division without managers. John (Bill) Carter, vice president of the Babe Ruth and Pony Leagues, needs four managers in the Pony League. A draft for the Babe Ruth teams will be held 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Fairgrounds. Persons wishing to manage a team may register at that time if they are unable to locate a program official before then. Here is the complete roster for the Mosquito League:

Romulus Hanover Raced With Broken Hoof Bone

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Romulus Hanover, who won the $178,064 Messenger Stakes, the first leg of racing's Triple Crown, raced most of last year with a broken bone in his left front hoof. Driver Billy Haughton disclosed the fact Monday in the wake of his colt's decisive 24-length victory over Best of All in record time of 1:59 1-5 Saturday night in harness racing's richest race. "I haven't told many about it, but Romulus raced most of last year with a broken bone in his front hoof," Haughton said. "In fact, I didn't tell the owner about it until Christmas."

He referred to John Froehlich, master of Farmstead Acres of Glen Head, N.Y., owner of the 3-year-old pacer. "It happened up at Vernon Downs last July," Haughton said. "He finished sixth in the Meadowlands Farm, a 2-year-old early closer. An X-ray showed a small bone broken in his left front hoof. "I asked the doc, 'What do we do?' he replied 'Don't do anything. He isn't lame.'"

Spring Ringer Tournament Is Scheduled

The Pickaway County Horse-shoe Club will hold its second annual Spring Ringer Tournament beginning Friday and running through May 28 at the local Fairgrounds. The tournament will be composed of six classes of six men per class. Trophies will be awarded down to third place in each class. Bob Redding is the defending champion. QUALIFYING begins 6 p. m. Friday and will continue through Sunday. The Class F and E finals will be pitched beginning 6 p. m. May 26. The class D and C finals will be held beginning 5 p. m. May 2. Finals in the class B and A division will be May 28. The tournament manger is John Wilkes. Bob Wilkinson is the league manager and Ray Goodman is chairman of the Pickaway County Horseshoe Club. The tournament is sponsored by Noel's King Boy.

Area Horsemen Represented in SD Challenge

Of the 211 two-year-olds still eligible for the Challenge Stakes Number Six two-year-old pace at Scioto Downs July 13, five are owned by Circleville horsemen. Norman Anderson has made the April sustaining payment for his bay filly, Raina Lobell, a High Walter-Rocky Brook colt. The Bowling Stable has two entries. They are Red Meadow Byrd, a chestnut colt by Meadow Chuck out of Marilyn Byrd, and Little Sale B, a bay colt by Set Sail and out of the mare Holly Creed. John Fissell has his Roundtown staked in the race. Roundtown is a brown son of Knight Time and out of Widow Creed. Donald and Carle E. Riffle have staked Twedy Time in the event. Twedy time is a daughter of Time's Square. Her dam is Opal's First. Of the 132 trotters staked for the July 20 running, Little Icky, is the only local entry. A bay son of Blaze Hanover out of Sure Hanover, he is owned by the Bowling Stable.

Colavito Wants Chance To Get Back Money Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Colavito wants to play more so he can earn back the money the Cleveland Indians cut from his 1967 contract. "That's all I want, a chance to earn back the money they cut me," the slugging outfielder said Monday in a 1½-page handwritten statement to baseball writer Russell Schneider of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"But still, I feel I'd be better off leaving than sitting on the bench the way I am. I don't know what's going to happen next, but this is it. I've said what's on my mind." Manager Joe Adcock said, "I manage this team and when I think Colavito can help by playing, he'll play."

Colavito, 33, who has been platooned with Leon Wagner in left field this season, is earning a reported $55,000 as against an estimated $67,000 in 1966. "Our ball club has a much better chance of scoring runs with both Wagner and myself in the line-up at the same time," said Colavito, who is hitting .297 in 15 games, 10 of which he started. "They are making sure I get no chance to earn back my cut. "I've given this a lot of thought. This situation has been bugging me for quite a while. Colavito could not be reached here Monday night for further comment. The Indians open a two-game series with the New York Yankees tonight. In his statement, Colavito said: "What has happened so far causes me to wonder if there's more here than meets the eye and I question if it doesn't go further than just the manager. "I confronted the manager regarding this on opening day. He denied it. "General Manager Gabe Paul would love to have me say 'trade me,' but I won't say that because that's not what I really want, although I think he would like to trade me."

Swim Team Schedules Registration

The Circleville Swim team will hold a registration meeting beginning 3:30 p. m. Sunday at Shelter House No 3, Ted Lewis Park. Jim Shea, coach of the team, announced that a short business session will be held for parents of swimmers. Instructions concerning daily swim practices and the competitive season will be given to parents and team members at that time. The Circleville team is a member of the South Central Ohio Swimming League, along with Upper Arlington, Delaware, Grove City, Columbus Olympic, Mt. Vernon and Columbus Hilltop. Both boys and girls, ages 10 through 17, are needed for the summer program according to Shea.

Reds Revenge Old Loss To Pittsburgh Pirates

CINCINNATI (AP)—Remember that wild 14-1 game the Cincinnati Reds lost to Pittsburgh last year, the one in which Art Shamsky slugged three straight game-tying homers in vain? It's hard to forget one like that, and the Reds didn't.

After Cincinnati overcame Roberto Clemente's three-homer, seven-RBI show and won 8-7 in 10 innings Monday night, Reds Manager Dave Bristol commented: "This does something to make up for that 14-1 beating Pittsburgh gave us last season."

Bristol still didn't know as of Monday when injured Deron Johnson and Tommy Helms would be back in the lineup, saying their status was on a day-to-day basis.

But Johnson's absence may have helped rather than hurt Monday night. It solved Bristol's problem of how to play first basemen Tony Perez and Lee May, both bona fide sluggers, at the same time.

Perez filled in for Johnson at third base.

An playing at the same time, batting 4-5 in the Reds' order, Perez and May played the big roles in overbalancing the one-man show by Clemente.

Perez singled and May followed with a home run in the ninth inning, tying the game. In the 10th Perez won it with a two - out RBI double. Perez woundup 4-for-5 with two runs batted in and three scored; May went 3-for-4, drove home four runs and scored two.

Of his game-winning double, Perez said losing pitcher Juan Pizarro "threw me an off-speed pitch, then I guessed he would come through with his fast ball. He did. It was right over the middle of the plate." Perez mashed it, scoring Pete Rose.

Driver Billy Haughton disclosed the fact Monday in the wake of his colt's decisive 2 1/4-length victory over Best of All in record time of 1:59 1/5 Saturday night in harness racing's richest race.

"I haven't told many about it, but Romulus raced most of last year with a broken bone in his front hoof," Haughton said. "In fact, I didn't tell the owner about it until Christmas."

"I asked the doc, 'What do we do?' he replied 'Don't do anything. He isn't lame'."

Romulus finished eighth in his next start at Buffalo Raceway on Aug. 2, showing a tendency to duck for the rail. He won his next two starts at the Meadows and Yonkers. He then finished his 2-year-old career with four straight victories, apparently fully recovered.

Romulus' over-all record now is 15 victories in 24 starts with a bankroll of $219,958. The colt is a full brother to Romeo Hanover, last year's pacing Triple Crown winner

Swim Team Schedules Registration

The Circleville Swim team will hold a registration meeting beginning 3:30 p. m. Sunday at Shelter House No. 3, Ted Lewis Park.

Jim Shea, coach of the team, announced that a short business session will be held for parents of swimmers.

Instructions concerning daily swim practices and the competitive season will be given to parents and team members at that time.

The Circleville team is a member of the South Central Ohio Swimming League, along with Upper Arlington, Delaware, Grove City, Columbus Olympic, Mt. Vernon and Columbus Hill-top.

Both boys and girls, ages 10 through 17, are needed for the summer program according to Shea.

Completed Mosquito Loop Team Rosters Announced

Roy Farmer, vice president of the Mosquito League of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program has completed rosters of the ten teams in the league.

Although all teams have ten or more youths, Farmer pointed out that there is still room for approximately 30 or 40 more boys in the league. He will continue to accept registrations and place youngsters on teams in the league.

It has always been the policy of the local baseball program to provide an opportunity for every youngster who wishes to play, Bill Thomas, president, states.

Once a youth is placed with the team, managers may not drop him from the roster because of a lack of ability. Managers are also urged by the board to allow every player on the roster to play one or more innings in every game.

THERE is a need for more managers in the youth baseball program. In the Mosquito League, The Fraternal Order of Police, Hummel and Plum, Mac's Goodyear and the Knights of Columbus do not have managers. Persons wishing to manage or assist with one of these teams may contact Roy Farmer.

PULL SOX UP The many roles of these two, infielder Wayne Causey (left) and reliever Hoyt Wilhelm, have had much to do with the success of the White Sox this year, with Causey filling in as a hot pinch-hitter too

Don Strawser, vice president of the Little Leagues, has two teams in the minor division without managers.

John (Bill) Carter, vice president of the Babe Ruth and Pony Leagues, needs four managers in the Pony League. A draft for the Babe Ruth teams will be held 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Fairgrounds.

Persons wishing to manage a team may register at that time if they are unable to locate a program official before then.

Here is the complete roster for the Mosquito League:

IN THE UNITED STATES

DISTRICT COURT FOR THE
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF OHIO
EASTERN DIVISION
In The Matter Of
The White Developmnt Company, Inc.

In Bankruptcy 43658
NOTICE OF SALE
AT PUBLIC AUCTION
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Pursuant to an order of the above entitled court, in bankruptcy, dated the 8th day of May, 1967, the undersigned, David L. Kraft, as trustee of the property and estate of the bankrupt above named, will offer for sale at the front door of the Pickaway County, Ohio, Courthouse, at Circleville, Ohio, at 10:00 o'clock A. M.,
May 24, 1967, the following described property of said bankrupt:

Situated in the City of Circleville, County of Pickaway and State of Ohio: Lots 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55 and 56 in the Garden City Addition to the City of Circleville, Ohio.

Said sale will be conducted by Curtis Hix as auctioneer, to the highest and best bidders for cash for each individual item of such property, or to the highest and best bidder for lots or parcels thereof.

High bids accepted must be accompanied by down payment of ten per cent (10 per cent) of the amount bid, balance upon delivery of deed by trustee, otherwise the property will be reoffered for sale, and all property will be offered for sale and subject to valid liens, for taxes or otherwise, which may exist against it to the extent of the right, title and interest that the bankrupt had, and the undersigned trustee now has, in the same.

Sale of such property shall be final only upon and at the time of confirmation by the court which may be made with or without the necessity for hearing upon filing of trustee's application for confirmation of said sale.

Lot 45 to be sold separately for not less than $21,388.63 plus 8 per cent interest per annum on the $20, 433.63 mortgage of The Seiko Building and Loan Company of Circleville,
Ohio, from March 10, 1967, until paid all lots excepting Lot 45 to be sold first as a whole and then separately for best price obtainable therefor;
sale to be subject to all liens of record which shall be transferred to purchaser of said lots with validity and priority of said liens to be determined by the Court.

Cincy Reds Defeat Pittsburgh, 8-6

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates were marking time until Roberto Clemente's next trip to the plate.

But Cincinnati's Tony Perez got there first, leaving Clemente with a night to remember — and an empty feeling.

Perez' run-scoring double in the 10th inning gave the National League-leading Reds an 8-7 victory over the Pirates — and nullified the biggest single-game spree of Clemente's career.

The Pittsburgh superstar drove in all of his team's runs with three towering homers and a double, moving into the league lead in both batting and run production.

"This is the biggest day I ever had — in a game that we lost," he sighed. "I've never hit three homers in a game before. I wish we had won it."

Clemente, whose batting average soared to .390 while his RBI mark jumped to 24, socked a bases-empty homer in the ninth inning that capped the personal binge and gave the Pirates a 7-5 lead.

But Lee May's two-run homer pulled the Reds even in the bottom of the ninth and Perez' fourth hit — a booming drive to dead center field off reliever Juan Pizarro in the 10th — knocked in the winning run.

While Cincinnati moved three games ahead of the second-place Pirates, the Houston Astros ended a five-game tailspin by edging Los Angeles 5-3 on Bob Aspromonte's two-run triple in the 10th inning.

Ernie Banks' three-run homer and two-run blasts by Lee Thomas and Billy Williams carried the Chicago Cubs to a 9-3 victory over San Francisco in an afternoon game. New York and Atlanta were rained out.

Kansas City trimmed California 5-2 in the American League while two games—Baltimore at Boston and Detroit at Washington—were postponed because of rain.

Clemente lashed two-run homers off Milt Pappas in the first and fifth innings, sending Pittsburgh ahead 4-0, then doubled two runs across in the seventh before slamming his sixth homer of the year in the ninth.

The Reds scored three runs in the sixth, knocking out Pirate starter Bob Veale, and added two more in the seventh on Perez' run-scoring double and an RBI single by May.

Perez singled before May's tying homer in the ninth, then delivered the winning hit with two on in the 10th.

The Astros tagged LA relief ace Phil Regan with his first loss in almost a year. Regan had won 15 straight since last May 13.

He came on at the start of the 10th, gave up a single by Joe Morgan and retired the next two hitters before walking Rusty Staub intentionally to get at Aspromonte.

Banks' sixth homer capped a four-run wrapup burst in the ninth for the Cubs, who have won seven of their last eight starts. Williams rapped three singles in addition to his homer for a total of nine hits in his last 10 at-bats.

Kansas City extended its winning string to four games as Bert Campaneris ignited two scoring rallies with singles and rookie Tony Pierce pitched one-hit relief over the final 2-1-3 innings, preserving John (Blue Moon) Odum's first victory.

China Exploded Just Year Ago

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A political bomb exploded in Peking just a year ago. The incredible binge of violence which followed apparently brought

Red China to the edge of civil war. It may be looking at the same specter again.

Brused and dazed, Red China's Communist party seems now to be struggling desperately to clear the wreckage. By all evidence, vast political and economic damage has been done, with more likely before the show ends.

The upheaval has endangered China's food supply. It also may be seriously affecting Peking's nuclear bomb program.

Piecing evidence together, analysts deduce that it was on May 16, 1966, that a power struggle claimed its first important victim.

Thereafter, a madness gripped Communist China. Party and government administrative structures in the capital and province have been reduced to rubble, if even part of the reports from Red China are true.

From a Politburo of 23 members which ruled the party, and through it the nation, prior to last May, only six members remain, mainland reports indicate.

Of 47 top government ministers, 23 have been severely attacked by Mao Tse-tung's Red Guards and "revolutionary rebels." Many have been fired. Many others are inoperative because of the confusion swirling about them.

Of 15 deputy premiers who were serving last year under Premier Chou En-lai, eight have been purged. Two others are in danger of being sacked.

Not a province or autonomous region in the whole nation of 750 million has escaped the uproar. The most explosive, Peking reports say, are Szechuan in the southwest, Honan in the south district which is the nation's food basket; Shantung in the east, Kansu and Sinkiang in the northwest. The latter two provinces hold important installations of China's nuclear pro-throw his suggestion "in the ashen if they wish, but I think this is going to plague Mr. Romney from now on out."

Romney's parents, Gaskell and Anne, fled to Chihuahua, Mexico, along with a number of other Mormons in 1885 when Congress outlawed polygamy, then a common practice in the Mormon Church. George Romney's parents were monogamous.

The governor's parents never gave up their citizenship. They returned to the United States during a period from 1911-12 when the Mormon colony in Mexico was beset by marauders, including Pancho Villa.

Celler said a legal test of Romney's eligibility could be demanded if he appeared in a presidential primary or if he was nominated and elected.

Delay Sought In Clay Trial

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge was to hold a hearing today on new motions by lawyers for Cassius Clay to delay the boxer's trial on criminal charges of draft evasion and to open Selective Service files for use in preparing his defense.

Lawyers Hayden Covington of New York and Quinlan Hodges of Houston filed motions Monday in federal district court in Houston and before a panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals sitting in Jacksonville, Fla.

The Jacksonville petition sought a delay of Clay's June 5 trial in Houston in the criminal indictment against him until the civil suit Clay brought against his draft board is settled before the Appeals Court in its October sitting. Hodges said Monday night the petition had been denied.

The Houston motions seek a continuance of the trial from June 5, alleging that it is "physically and humanly impossible" for the lawyers to make ready by that date.

Clay's defense will be based in part upon an allegation that draft boards are weighted with white member and exclude Negroes.

On April 28 in Houston, his adopted hometown, the boxer refused to take the Army oath as a draftee. He claimed military exemption as Muhammad Ali, Muslim minister. Within hours, he was stripped of his world heavyweight title and on May 8, a federal grand jury in Houston returned the indictment against him.

Eligibility of Romney

For Presidency in Doubt

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., says a question remains whether Michigan Gov. George Romney is eligible for the presidency.

Romney, considered by many a frontrunner for the Republican presidential nomination, was born in Mexico to American parents.

Celler, appearing Sunday on the WNBC-TV "Searchlight" program, said there was no doubt about Romney's American citizenship. But the head of the House Judiciary Committee noted that the Constitution stipulates that the president must be a "natural born" citizen.

Celler suggested that the Republican party appoint some sort of commission to "come up with an answer to this situation."

Life in Greece Is Oddly Quiet

ATHENS (AP) — In a joke making the rounds in Athens, a Greek standing in a crowded bus asks the man next to him: "Excuse me, sir, is your father an army officer?"

"No."
"Possibly an uncle?"
"No."
"I'm sorry to bother you this way, but is anyone in your family an army officer?"

"No."
"Well, in that case, get the hell off my foot."
The military dictatorship which took over Greece April 21 is stepping on a lot of feet, but there is a striking lack of complaint.

Much of this is obviously due to fear.

Despite the efforts of the regime to present itself as a paternal protector seeking to bring order and a sense of decency and purpose into national life, everyone knows the government has absolute power.

"We are not executioners," Gen. Gregory Spantidakis, the deputy premier and defense minister, said recently. But they could be if they wanted to. There is no one to prevent it.

Yet there is evident a general sense of accommodation to what has befallen Greece — at least for now.

Many Greeks display relief that the coup went off as painlessly as it did—and that nothing worse happened.

"It's quiet, eh?" one often hears. "That's good. Let's hope it stays that way."

It is indeed quiet. So quiet for Greece in this balmy sunny time of year that something seems strangely missing.

The action is missing, the clamor and hubbub, the outspoken political controversies, the banners, the violent polemics, the demonstrations, the rowdy public rallies that would be taking place if the country were not under a dictatorship that prevented the elections scheduled for May 28.

A first-time visitor would hardly suspect a dictatorship was in force.

The government has made a big show of censoring the local press. Yet Greeks who can read French, German, Italian or English have their choice of foreign newspapers and magazines. Editorials in many of these publications roast the new regime.

There are noticeably fewer tourists than usual. One agency reports a 70 per cent drop in bookings since the coup. But the Greeks seem to be making the best of the situation and waiting warily for what comes next.

There is no doubt that many of the 8.5 million Greeks are bitter about the ending of democracy, the summary imprisonment of some 7,000 persons for political reasons and the arbitrary control over everyone's life.

But like the man in the joke, the people who feel their feet are being stepped on are very careful about who they complain about.

Two Teachers Are Employed At Westfall

The Westfall Board of Education Monday night employed two teachers. Both will be graduated from Ohio University in June.

Miss Diana Reynolds of Williamsport will be a high school English instructor. Larry Eichler of Columbus has been employed as band instructor.

In other business conducted by the board, the school calendar for the 1967-68 year was adopted.

The new calendar lists Sept. 5, 1967 as the opening day of school and May 29, 1968 as the final day.

The Westfall graduate list was approved, and contracts awarded to non-certified employees.

Ohio Legislature

Pay Raise Bill Should See Final Action Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Leaders called for final legislative action today on the big state employee pay raise bill and set the stage for a Senate vote on another measure to enhance Ohio's industrial climate. At the same time, House and Senate committees called for more testimony on other key bills, foremost among them the $4.9 billion appropriations bill to finance state operations for the two years starting July 1.

Return of the lawmakers from weekend recess was highlighted by the appearance of Dr. John D. Millett, Ohio Regents' chancellor, before the House Finance Committee to explain the financial dilemma of the state's higher education program.

Both houses scheduled votes today on the report of a conference committee which resolved differences on the state employee pay bill. Under it, about 45,000 state workers will get boosts of 10 per cent effective July 1 and another 5 per cent step increment a year later.

Some employees in "critical" areas—such as nurses and employees at state institutions—would receive hikes immediately upon signing by the governor. The bill also would increase Ohio's minimum wage from $1.34 to $1.40 an hour to meet the new federal minimum.

Sen. Walter Powell R-4 Butler and other officials said they saw no major opposition to his administration-backed bill to permit counties and cities to issue self-recovering revenue bonds for industrial purposes. Some officials contend municipalities already have such authority but acknowledged the authority has been clouded by certain court decisions.

The Senate passed three bills without dissent and the House gave unanimous approval to a pair of measures during brief floor sessions Monday night.

Senators completed passage of a measure establishing a Bureau of Mental Retardation in the Division of Mental Hygiene, raising certain fees charged by the Department of Insurance, making it easier for health districts to combine or contract for services.

The House approved and sent to the Senate measures clarifying means of making corrections in birth certificates and extending to boys under the jurisdiction of the Youth Commission the same protection from outside detrimental adult influence now afforded girls under the commission's jurisdiction.

The House voted 83 - 9 to create small claims divisions in municipal and county courts even though several Ohio cities, including Cleveland, have operated them successfully without statutory authority for many years.

Rep. Allan E. Norris R - 15 Westerville, Franklin, said the bill would help operators of small, independent "ma and pa" stores and others "collect from deadbeats whom they cannot now sue because of high legal costs and attorney fees." Under the measure, actions seeking recovery of debts up to $150 could be brought for a $2 fee and litigation could be carried out without need of an attorney, he said.

Among seven bills introduced in the two houses was one by Rep. Walter L. White R-6 Allen to extend from 1968 to 1970 the deadline for municipalities to pay their accrued liabilities to the new State Police and Firemen's Pension Fund without addition of interest.

White, chairman of the House Taxation Committee, said the moratorium would "permit cities, as well as the legislature, to review the actual figures on liabilities of cities for pension funds..."

The last legislature created the fund and subsequent actuarial investigation revealed funds in the majority of Ohio cities had accrued liabilities far in excess of their assets. In some cases, the amount of the deficit is staggering.

White noted some of them: Cleveland $109 million, Columbus $42 million, Dayton $21 million, Toledo $30 million, Youngstown $14 million, Hamilton $5.5 million, Canton $11 million, and Lima $3 million.

TO ATTEND BOYS' STATE — Bob Tootle, Richard Cree and Steve McGinnis will be three Pickaway County delegates to Boys' State this year at Ohio University. They will be sponsored by the local American Legion Post 134 and BPO Elks Lodge 77. Gov. James A. Rhodes will be one of the featured speakers at the annual event.

Area Students Are Named For Buckeye Boys' State

Three area high school students have been named to attend the annual American Legion sponsored Buckeye Boys' State June 8-16 at Ohio University in Athens.

Selected by Circleville's Hall-Adkins Post 134 and BPO Elks Lodge 77 were Bob Tootle and Steve McGinnis of Circleville High School and Richard Cree of Logan Elm. These juniors will be among 1,360 taking part in the mock state, county and city governmental meetings.

To be named as a delegate to Boys' State, a candidate must exhibit qualities of leadership, sportsmanship, scholarship and courage for service.

Additional requirements that must be met include better than average grades; endorsements by the high school principal and history or political science teachers; exhibition of qualities as a leader and organizer of school groups; possession of self-reliance; demonstration of preference for civics, public speaking or debate and being physically able to participate in all phases of the strenuous Boys' State program.

A NUMBER of outstanding speakers and prominent persons have accepted invitations to appear at Boys' State this year. Among these are Gov. James A. Rhodes, Ohio Supreme Court Judge C. William O'Neill and Donald Lukens, first-year Congressman from the 24th District who was once a Boys' State delegate.

The delegates and their parents will attend an orientation meeting May 18 at the Chillicothe American Legion Post. William Welsh, Ohio American Legion Youth Department chairman, will conduct the program.

Tooled, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Tootle, Route 2, is deeply involved in activities at Circleville High School. He is a member of the Tiger football and basketball teams; president of the Junior Class and vice president-elect of the Senior Class; president of the Stooze Club; a member of the National Honor Society and a member of the Junior Class Play cast.

McGinnis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McGinnis of 836 Atwater Ave., lists among his activities the Key Club, of which he has been secretary for two years. He is also the secretary of the division 10-W Key Clubs of Ohio; Junior Class secretary and treasurer of the Luther League at Trinity Lutheran Church. He also was a third place winner in the district Prince of Peace Speech contest.

Cree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Cree of Route 4, is president of the Pickaway County National Honor Society; secretary of the Student Council at Logan Elm High School and secretary of the Soil Savers 4-H Club. He is also a member of the news staff; the Quill and Scroll; Pickaway County Junior Leaders and the football, basketball and track teams at Logan Elm.

Life in Greece Is Oddly Quiet

ATHENS (AP) — In a joke making the rounds in Athens, a Greek standing in a crowded bus asks the man next to him: "Excuse me, sir, is your father an army officer?"

"No."

"Possibly an uncle?"

"No."

"I'm sorry to bother you this way, but is anyone in your family an army officer?"

"No."

"Well, in that case, get the hell off my foot."

The military dictatorship which took over Greece April 21 is stepping on a lot of feet, but there is a striking lack of complaint.

Much of this is obviously due to fear.

Despite the efforts of the regime to present itself as a paternal protector seeking to bring order and a sense of decency and purpose into national life, everyone knows the government has absolute power.

"We are not executioners," Gen. Gregory Spantidakis, the deputy premier and defense minister, said recently. But they could be if they wanted to. There is no one to prevent it.

Yet there is evident a general sense of accommodation to what has befallen Greece — at least for now.
